

Capturing the Moment

James. D.

This year I really didn't have the chance to become acquainted with you. until the end of the year. and now it is time to part and go reach our goals. I wish you all the luck in the world. I hope we can see each other some time in the near future.

It's hard to forget those special experiences; the good times - making honor roll, Spirit Week, Junior Ring Day, passing mid-terms, vacations; and the bad times - detentions, losing the big game, failing tests, missing the bus, breaking up with that special person. These memories are all fresh in our minds now, but will we remember them in the years to come? Looking back on the past school year, there are so many things that remind us of these special moments.

These experiences will be with us throughout our entire life. Penn Wood High School will always be a part of us, constantly influencing us. Pictures preserve the times that are most important to you — senior portraits, proms, classes and club pictures.

Photos not only capture the moments in your life, but also the happenings that have occurred throughout

1986 — 1987.

Only a few photographs can be included in a yearbook. We hope that this small selection will spark many happy memories. So here it is,

THE WELL-KNOWN SWIMMING POOL

Every year disillusioned, bright-eyed sophomores roam the halls of Penn Wood High School in search of their classrooms. However, every other year nervous sophomores search for the Penn Wood swimming pool located on the "well-known" fourth floor.

The seniors and juniors victimize these confused sophomores who are easy prey. Each time the joke is played, a couple sophomores end up climbing the extra set of stairs leading to a locked door which leads to the roof of the school. Undoubtedly, sophomores are always "left to hang dry."

An interesting part of the school is the war monument on the south side of the building where smokers produce enough smoke to make Los Angeles smell like roses

Not everyone around it are there to smoke, there are those who risk racking up detentions by being late for classes just for a little conversation with friends

It's interesting to watch the group when Mr Bell comes into view. One second, they're all there; the next, they're fleeing to classes as Mr. Bell walks by on his regular beat

Not fazed by the consequences, they come back in hordes when the next bell rings. Some people suggested that admission be charged to those who attend this event possibly bringing in enough money to support school activities

Outstanding in their field the "Monument Crew" club enjoys a quick smoke and a long break between classes, despite the rain

The Soph. class was really up (?) for the magazine drive this year as was the whole school.

A locker's life is harsh. Every morning, students dump junk into me, and forget about me until 2:07.

I'm treated like dirt. They kick me, slam my door, and stuff me with everything - school books, paper, dirty socks, old pens, and sometimes a bologna sandwich that was being saved for a rainy day. Along with the mess, consider the smell. Would you like to be suffering from halitosis? Do you want a mouthful of trash?

They try to make it up to me by sticking pictures or posters on my door. One of the worst people for sticking stuff into my locker is Gloria O'Neill who said, "I like decorating my locker because it makes it more personal." A sophomore said, "I have to rush to school and I have no idea how I look by the time I get to school. I need to at least see what I look like. That's why I have my mirrors in my locker."

I can't stand it any more. It's time that people realize that we lockers are people too!!

SOPHOMORE LEADERS

Vantita Chea Debbie Ervin Keito Bird, Nichelle Gilliam and Ms. Larer worked hard for the Sophomore Class Committee

The school year began with election and installation of class officers. Keito Bird, Nichelle Gilliam, Vantita Chea, Debbie Ervin, and Shawna Rickerts

In January, the sophomore class committee tried something new. They ran a computer dating service for students, a computer tabulated the results of their questionnaires and, for a dollar, they could find out their 10 most compatible dates. They were also in charge of decorating the second floor for Spirit Week with banners, streamers and balloons.

The concession stand was filled with sophomore spirit as they sold food and drinks during some of the boys home basketball games. They also worked hard planning the Soph Hop, which was held on April 24 in the Penn Wood "Ball Room".

All in all, the sophomore officers had a good time getting involved in high school activities and have plans of doing the same for next year.

Sunrise

You sit behind the sunset
with me on the other side
My thoughts bring me closer to you.
What draws me away is my pride.
Sweet promises of always and forever
were oh such pretty lies,
And so I sit in front of the sunset waiting for the sunrise.

Senior Year

My mind is elsewhere occupied
Leaving my body tied to this chaotic place of inquiry.
How will I live? What will I eat?
Where will I sleep?
Oh, what fear I put into my heart
when these questions are asked.
Before it was easy to do what they asked. They were mere tasks.
Now the problem is, I care.
I look to teachers as models.
I look to predecessors as my throttle.
I look to the Holy Bible—?
Now, it is survival

Jean-Eric Sanchez

My mind is my home, and this is where I dwell.
No one but me can possess
it, and no one will ever conquer it, for it is mine, all mine.
It is most powerful - thinking, dreaming, searching of an everlasting peace that is hidden inside me.
It hurts sometimes, giving me great pain,
but I can endure it.
I can endure anything as long as I can travel deep inside my mind, for it is my world -
my world of peace.

Bill Matthews

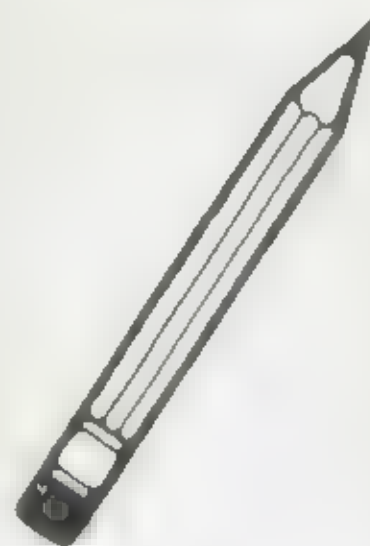

I close my eyes and I see a world, a world of darkness. It is hazy. It is medieval, but here there are no knights in shining armor. It's just me, surrounded in an everlasting mist of loneliness. It is cold in some parts and in others, very hot. It makes me sleepy, but I must stay awake, for I am looking for someone who might be here. I don't think she is, but I keep looking, for that is why I am here- to find her. I have explored many worlds and found many clues to where she might be. I had her once, lost and found her many times. Maybe this time I will not find her again. I don't want another. I want her and her alone, if I don't find her I will remain in this world forever.

To Mend a Heart

I dream about thee
Sweet thoughts of the past.
Together we were
In hopes it would last.
Now they scare me
And I awake cold and fast.
Realizing in agony
Our love was never vast.
All I ask for today
Is to forget the things that hurt most.
So I may find another way
To seek a new and brighter coast.

Goodbye to Penn Wood High School

These past three years have passed us by,
It is now the time we say goodbye.
Now we face the years ahead,
"We'll keep in touch" will surely be said.
As we look back on our high school years that have passed.
The love and friendship we shared will always last.
We'll say goodbye, eyes filled with tears, as we, the class of nineteen-eightyseven, complete these last three years.

Steve Skane

Looking for the Key

The warmth we shared was all I asked;
I never thought our time would pass.
But now, as days fly by and by,
I often question why and sigh,
For the love we had is growing evermore
Inside my heart behind a closed door.

The Beauty of Silver

Silver is the frost on the sun so bright,
Silver is the moon on the frosty night,
Silver is the trickle of a brook or a stream,
Silver can trim the crown of a king,
Silver is the sound of a light footstep,
Or the sun's reflection on a wire net,
Silver is the smell of a frosty breeze,
Silver is the sound of the pouring rain,
Or the smooth glass of a window pane,
Silver is the stars that are so bright,
Silver is the sound of a bird in flight,
When I think of silver I want to sing,
For silver, I know, is a beautiful thing.

A Sinister Seduction

O, the misty, dreary, glum and dark night!
It reminds me of my sinister crime,
Malicious malaise of inflicted plight,
The wounded hear bleeds and will die in time.
Yes, I am guilty of killing our love,
Playing out the part of the enchanted,
And hurting you, the most innocent dove,
Wish you'd noticed that our love was tainted.
My soul filled my heart with only evil,
Never been loved, malignancy within,
Don't know how to care, regrets overspill,
Lost part of my spirit, always in sin.
Love holds no benefits for me, so sad,
You were an experiment that went bad.

On Education

Like the first breeze from a clear day in spring,
It sneaks up slowly and rustles in me,
New insights, hopes, dreams and understanding,
And like that clear breeze, it will forever be.

Like a kindled flame from an old candle,
It lives in me with a yellow-red glow.
For in its warmth, I learn how to handle,
What painful fardels life presents and grow.

Like a new-born infant I appeared,
And very quietly my knowledge grew,
Though I, like the little babe, at first feared,
Being lost and over-whelmed by the new.

By seeing the world, with the help of my dear mentor,
I wish my gained knowledge, can to the heavens soar

Homecoming 1986 was a grand finale to a very successful spirit week. This year's Homecoming was on Sat. Oct. 20. The day started out with the football team playing Del-Val rival Glenn Mills. During halftime, as tradition follows, the queen and king were crowned; they were Deanna Byrne and Paul Koester. The queen's court included Gloria O'Neill, Adrienne McCalla, Monique Evans and Vernita Blackwell. The king's court included Tony Diluzio, Eric Williamson, and Steve Hayko. PW's football team went back on the field in the second half to defeat Glenn Mills in an impressive 16-7 victory.

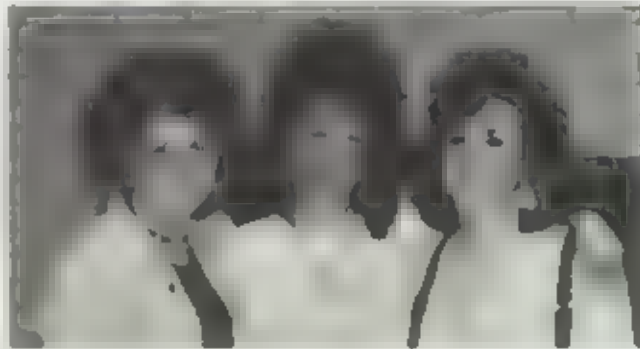

The excitement continued into the night as students met again at the Homecoming dance sponsored by the Student Council. The mixture of the football team's victory and the dance music gave was the perfect way to conclude a wonderful week of fun, competition and zaniness.

SPILLING OVER

Exciting, fun, bubbling, screaming, and loud are just a few words to describe this year's Spirit Week.

It all started off with the decorating of the hallways, gave a sense of unity within each class. Each day was devoted to a certain competition. Our week had a full schedule including the following: Monday, 60's day; Tuesday, tag day; Wednesday, revenge day; Thursday, Hawaiian day; and Friday, School Color day. The week came to a final closing with Penn Wood's traditional Pep Rally which was led by the cheerleaders. The seniors showed their enthusiasm by dressing up in zany costumes. In addition to this, they also displayed superiority by winning the spirit contest.

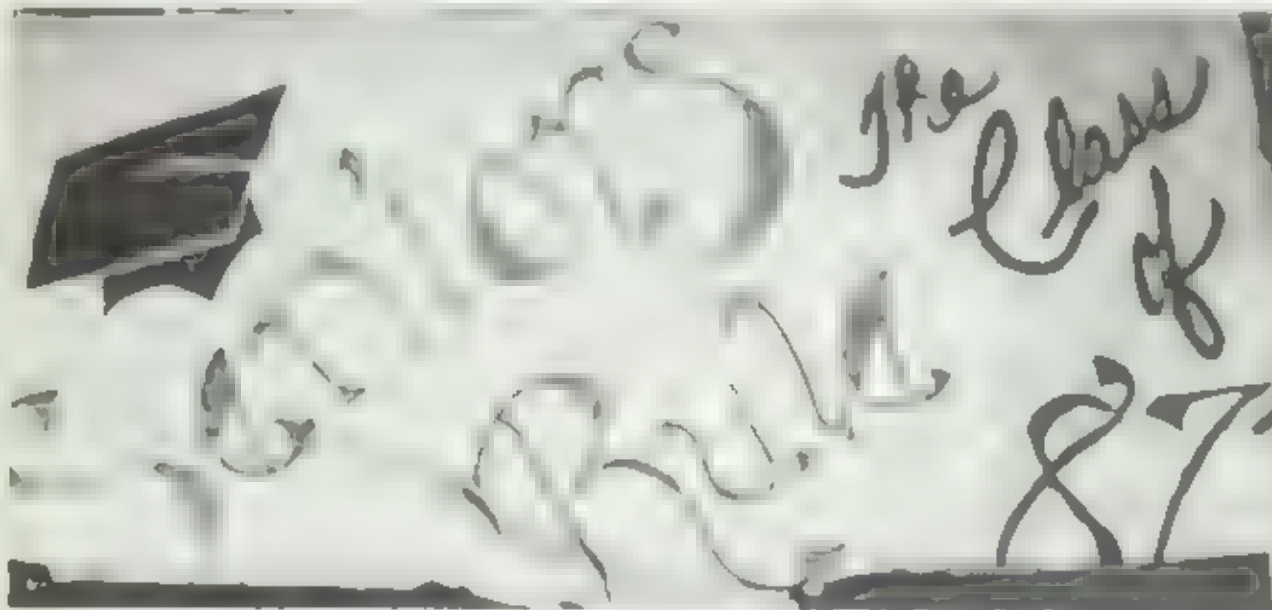

But all things must come to an end. All that was left that Friday at 2:07 were memories of good times and a floor full of confetti.

Sporting her father's outerwear, Beth Pear still cheers her fellow seniors on.

PENN WOOD COMES MARCHING IN

To the beat of the song Tequilla Beth Stanton captain leads the routine

Even though she's fatigued Kathy Scott continues on entertaining the crowd

Many think the band front as being just a bunch of flag twirlers. They couldn't be more wrong. Their job isn't easy; not many can dance with flags the way these girls do. They have to keep rhythm and interpret the music with their steps.

The two band front directors, Miss McCoury and Miss Reti deserve credit for the exciting routines performed this year. Both were once in popular band fronts. The band front put in many late nights of practice which paid off in the end. Mr. LeMar was pleased to see the talent "... of the 25 girls who came out only 10 were good enough to stand the test."

This year's captains were Beth Stanton and Kelly Senalz. It's clearly evident that PW's flags flew high this year

Penn Wood's Band Front puts on a spectacular Grand Finale to show off the hard work that they put in all season

CREATIVE MUSIC FROM

This year's marching band had a particularly tough beginning. The season began in August with a new director, Mr. Lamar, and a band camp which wasn't what it should have been. Despite the fact that many people showed up for band camp, the band had to work problems out and by the time football season came around, things were perfect.

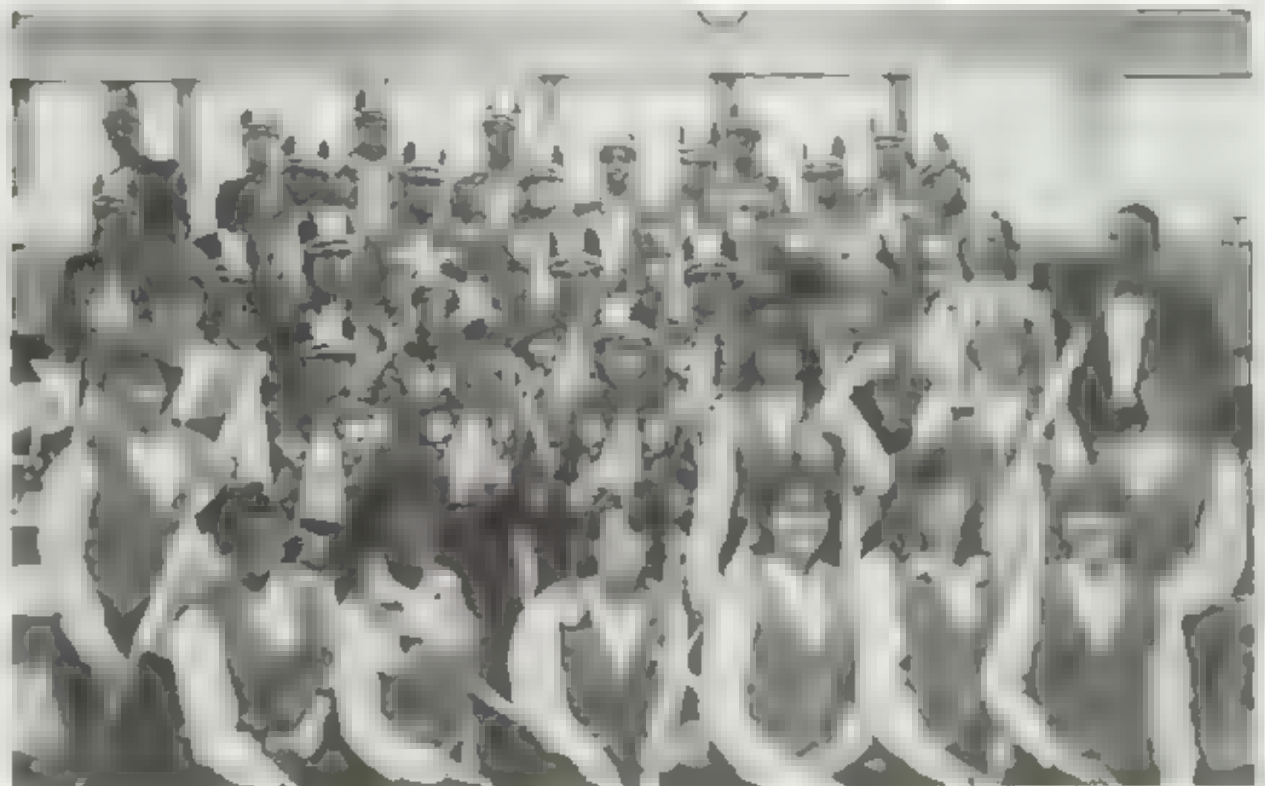

Band members came back to school at six o'clock every Wednesday night for two hours to practice their routines. Whether it was cold, hot, rainy or whatever, they marched until their routines were the best they could be. Mr. Lamar commented on those nights, saying that they were "tough, but worth it because each performance got better and better".

Finally the "fateful day", as described by Mr. Lamar, approached. The Penn Wood band on the cold, wet, winter day of November 15 (the last football game) marched displaying their full potential and mesmerized their audience. "We were hot!", said Mr. Lamar.

The band was small but powerful. They worked hard and it showed.

ONE LITTLE TWO LITTLE

On February 6th and 7th, the Senior Class put on its annual play to benefit the Senior Prom. This year's play was "Ten Little Indians", a mystery classic by Agatha Christie. Leading roles were played by Vicki Berry (Vera Claythorne), Bob Mannion (Judge Wargrave) and Jim Becker (Philip Lombard). Supporting roles were played by Nick Huyhn (General McKenzie), Steve Skane (Dr. Armstrong), Jen Haggerty (Emily Brent), Mike Jackson (Fred Narracott), Heidi Green (Ethel Rogers), Don Sheehan (Billy Blore), Tom Scales (Tony Marston), and Frank Echols (Tom Rogers).

The cast was put through many trials and tribulations, such as postponements, bad weather, and a ceiling that was falling down. Another problem was that there were many conflicting personalities, resulting in more problems, said Senior Bob Mannion, "Despite some of the personal differences we learned to put our differences aside, and we put on a great show." "I enjoyed the authority," said Senior student director Heidi Green "but it was impossible to get the cast to listen to me." The whole thing was like an episode from "Keystone Kops", but in the end, they learned to live with each other and really did a great job. Producer Stephen McGarvey was extremely proud.

In this play, ten men and women are invited to an island off the coast of Cape Cod. There, a madman, Mr. Unknown Owen, accuses each of his guests of murder. One by one, the guests are killed, each death fits with the poem "Ten Little Indians" nursery rhyme which hangs above the fireplace. Finally, in a climactic scene, the murderer is revealed. As it turns out, the murderer is . . . Well, if you saw the play, you know how it turns out, and if you didn't, too bad.

The boatman Fred Narracott announces that the guests have arrived.

With his aura of seriousness the Judge comes on the scene.

The Judge reads aloud one of the letters written by Mr. "Unknown" Owen.

Using his power of persuasion, Philip tries to charm Vera.

While Philip pours the drinks, Marston and Blore introduce one another after arriving.

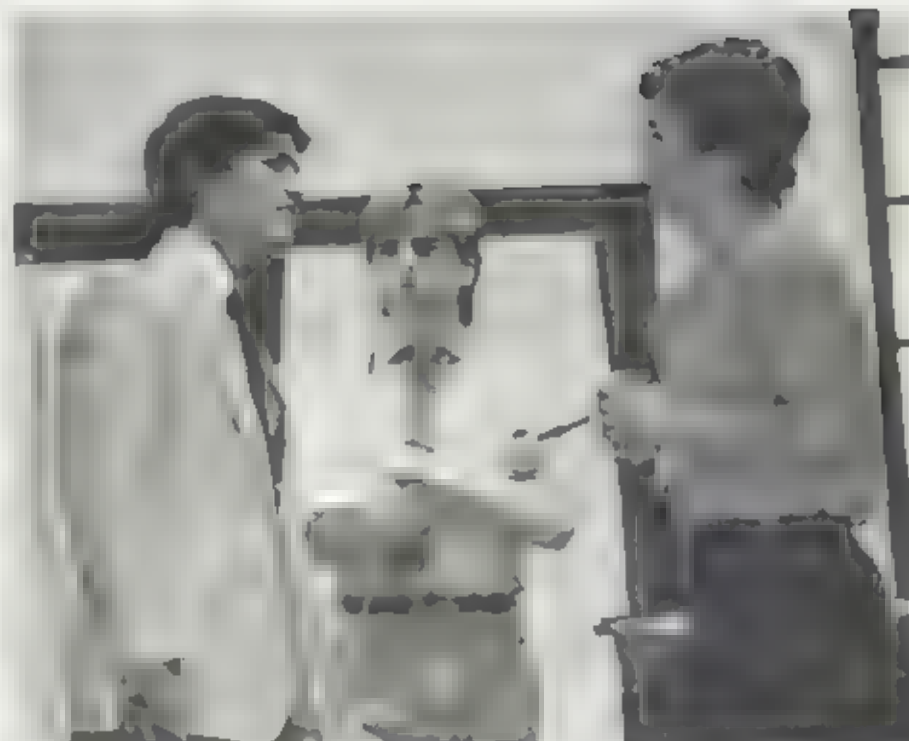

The guests discover the "Ten Little Indian" rhyme hanging above the fireplace, and the plot thickens

After hearing the series of accusations, the guests are badly shaken up.

Philip and the Judge confront Blore, forcing him to reveal his true identity, which he had been hiding.

Blore gets the Judge alone so he can tell him who he suspects committed the murders.

If you come one step closer I'll shoot! exclaims Vera to her nemesis.

"I must have my hanging. MY HANGING . . . IIIII!" screams the Judge as he goes into a mad rage.

After rescuing Vera from the clutches of death, Philip and she exchange vows of love and seal them with a kiss.

Taking a final bow are the leads of the play, Vicki Berry, Bob Mannion, and Jim Becker.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

The Inter-Art club got off to a slow start this year, but under a new supervisor it worked on a school service project. Mrs. Arimoto, the new supervisor, gave the club some new direction. The club's school service project consisted of keeping up the bulletin board next to the cafeteria. The themes for the board were based on holidays. The club began to write a Constitution to set the by-laws of the organization.

The Inter-Art club is supported by the International Rotary Club of Lansdowne-Darby. They are required to work on a school and community project, but haven't had time to do so. Their motto, "Service Above Self", is used continually throughout their projects and also individually outside the club.

Members of the Inter Act club Andrea Benlatti and Liz Koshy look onward for future Inter Act members.

Mrs. Arimoto the advisor of the Inter Act club is pleased with the work of the club.

The choir at Penn Wood High School meets during class periods, it has a written curriculum and when you take this course, academic credit is given. The choir has a full schedule, including a community concert, Christmas Concert and a musical performed in the spring. Also many community organizations got the opportunity to hear our choir sing. The final performance is at graduation, adding a special touch to the ceremony.

This year, several individuals received special honors for their talent. They are Jacequeline Hill, Anthony Mosakowski, and Marc Howard. All were members of District Chorus this year. Also Anthony received the privilege of being in Regional Chorus.

The choir filled the school year with a calender packed with concerts and musical presentations. All members share their ability to blend their voice to present memorable musical events.

ALL DWARFED OUT

Every year, the Drama Club puts on a play for the elementary students. This year, officers Barb Lorilliere (Pres.), Bob Mannion (V.P.), Heidi Green (Sec.), and Don Sheehan (Treas.) decided that Snow White and the Seven Dwarves would be performed this year; so, along with Mr. Stephen MacGarvey, they cast the play and planned it out.

Not only was the play fun for the kids, but it was fun for the cast and crew as well. The entire show was ad-libbed in other words, the lines were made up as the cast went along. The results were often amusing. "This way, the aspiring actors and actresses had an opportunity to express their creativity," said Bob Mannion.

An interesting aspect of this play is that the cast included audience participation. The children at Ardmore Ave and East Lansdowne loved the play. The show also aired on the William Penn Cable Station.

The cast consisted of many members. The dwarves were: Bob Mannion, Steve Skane, Barb Lorilliere, Jodi Rosenthal, Connie Thompson, Josette Richardson, and Heidi Green. The main roles were played by Vicki Berry as Snow White; Frank Echols, the prince; Beth Waldren, the wicked queen and Don Sheehan, the magic mirror. Jim Becker, Lori Carol, and Andrea Benfatti played supporting roles.

Backstage help was provided by Kim Rogers, Tom Scales, Lisa Webb, Reggie Downs, Joe King, and the PW camera crew.

The Drama Club would like to thank producer, Mr. MacGarvey, for his time and effort in producing a magnificent show.

Drama Club Advisor, Mr. MacGarvey, explains how the stage is to be set.

Preparing the set for the play are diligent workers, Barbara Lorilliere and Robert Mannion.

Prince Charming, Frank Echols, bends down to kiss the lovely Snow White, Vicki Berry.

The wicked queen, Beth Waldren, asks the mirror, Donald Sheehan, "Who is the fairest of them all?"

CAUGHT IN ACTION

Lights, Camera, Action! At every school event a student carrying a camera can be seen rushing to capture the action on film. The T.V. crew consists of a group of young people who work vigorously at putting together programs for the suburban cable channel, 10. In addition to learning how to use video equipment, students learn to develop other skills, such as, "writing skills, reading skills, dramatic skills, and creative potential." Mr. Theilacker, who teaches the telecommunications class, said that learning those skills in addition to the operation of equipment is valuable. "Not only does knowledge in the area of telecommunications prepare a student for a job market", said Mr. Theilacker, "but it promotes cooperation among the students."

The crew this year hopes to put in, at the most, 200 hours of programming. Being a part of the T.V. crew is no easy task. A lot of dedication and hard work is required. Remember this important fact when watching the suburban cable channel in the future.

Adding life to a boring day class clown Joe Spicer does his Pee Wee Herman dance.

Reggie Downs and Mark Wells, two crew veterans, give Mr. Theilacker the answer to a big problem.

Robin DiPrietas and Jen Haggerty outline several possibilities for their next project.

After a rough class, Jim Gerakaris sits back, kicks up his feet and calls it a day.

You connect these wires and it works! says Ron German

Matt McDonald and Daryl Morris finish their work on the new NBC telemovie

PLANNING AHEAD

The goal of Upward Bound is to increase student's academic performance and motivation level. Its ultimate goal is the placement of the participle in a postsecondary school. To help its students reach this goal, Upward Bound offers academic instruction and tutoring to improve the student's chance of gaining acceptance into a college of their choice. There were tutoring sessions with Ms. Smith to improve english/language art skills, and sessions with Mr. Lester to improve mathematical skills. Major emphasis was placed on raising the students' SAT score. Students were drilled in both verbal and mathematics in hopes that they would achieve higher SAT scores.

In addition to academic aid, students received tips and advice in the area of education and career opportunities. Students learned how to prepare for college and what to expect. Advice from Widner Counsolers help stuents make the decisions of which college to apply to, and what career to pursue. Motivational workshops are also available to improve communication skills.

Upward Bound offers a summer program to give the students a first hand look on college life. Students are given the chance to build up their responsibility and to open up to the new freedom.

Enrollment in Upward Bound has improved this year, but there is still room for more candidates. Upward Bound is not a scape goat for students with failing grades, but a chance for students to do well for themselves.

Upward Bound, under Mrs. Smith (and Mr. Lester) includes such esteemed members as: Paul Sul, Evon Rankin, Marcia William, Danielle Thomas, and Kim Smith.

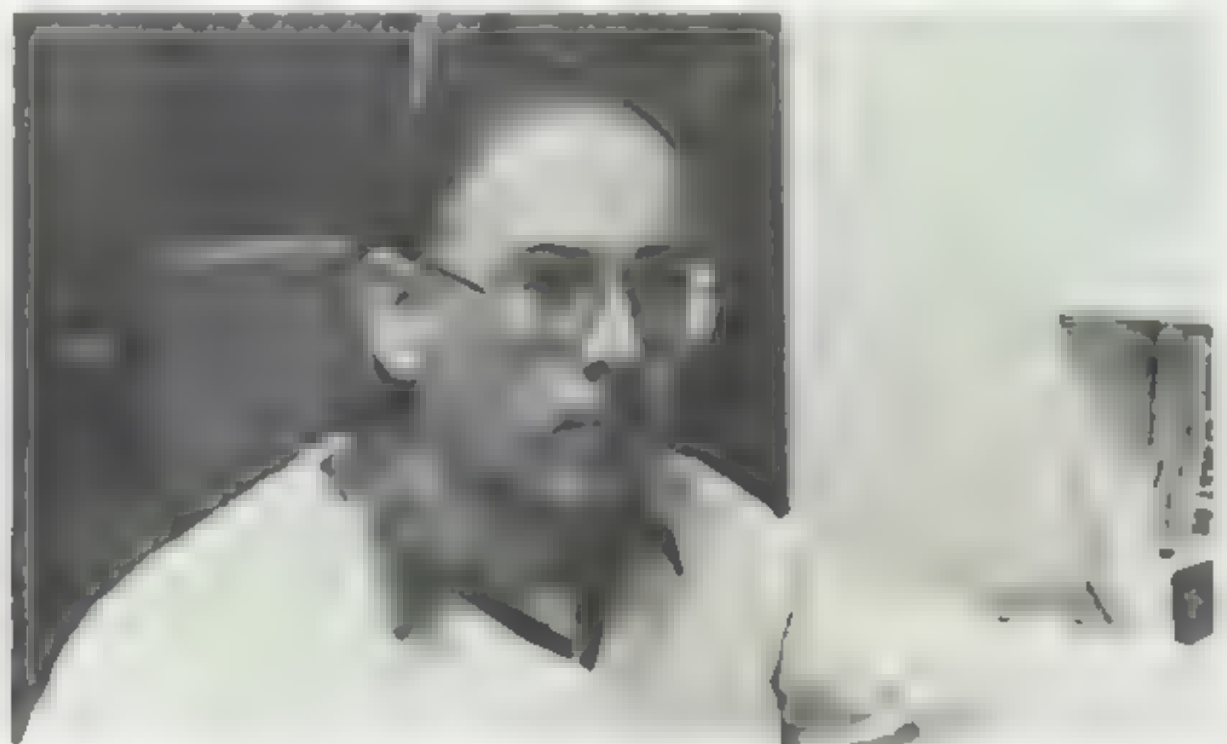

Kim Smith knows PW spirit is important in school.

Mrs. Smith, advisor - English and Vocabulary

Brian Mackey is active in other school activities - a sign of a good student.

Mr. Lester is the other advisor who teaches the Upward Bound members Math as well as Biology.

A TASTE OF

Once again, Penn Wood's choir has followed the tradition of performing a Gilbert and Sullivan musical. This year, for the first time in Penn Wood's history, the music department has produced the "Mikado."

The musical is about the Emperor's (Mark Howard) son, Nanki-Poo (Anthony Mosakowski), who runs away from his marriage to Katisha (Joan Seelaus). Later, Nanki-Poo falls in love with Yum-Yum (Jacqui Hill) who is betrothed to Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner (Steve Skane). The Emperor requires Ko-Ko to execute someone, or he'll lose his job, so Ko-Ko tells Nanki-Poo that he could marry Yum-Yum for a month, but at the end of the month, Nanki-Poo would be executed. That way, Ko-Ko could keep his job. The musical continues to get more confusing until finally, Nanki-Poo marries Yum-Yum, and Katisha marries Ko-Ko.

Other cast members include: Ron Lowicki (Pooh-Bah), Buddy Teaford (Pish Tish), Lori Carroll (Pitti-Sing), Andrea Benfatti (Peep-Bo), and Michael Porter (Nobleman), with Teresa Petrovics as an understudy.

FIDDLING AROUND

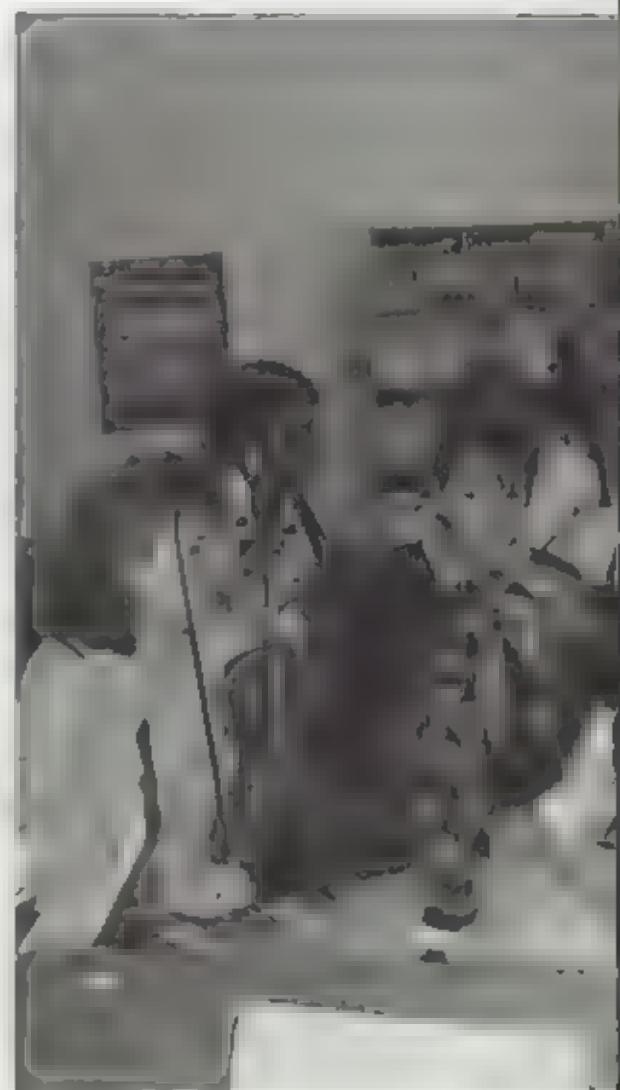

Under the direction of Mrs. Cox, the orchestra helped bring the school year to a harmonious end. Mrs. Cox sought out the "elite musicians to join the orchestra. The orchestra was a conglomeration of band and orchestra class members along with a few students who showed a musical interest. They had long rehearsals. The end results were enriching and enjoyable music for many.

For weeks, they met and practiced for its first concert. The Christmas concert was held at a nursing home for the elderly. After the concert, the members sang songs with the patients, leaving them with the Christmas spirit.

After vacation, they continued to practice for the Spring Concert. Each section of Bourre, Marche Slave, and Overture Russe was perfected. The concert was well worth the time put into all of the hard work and practice of these students.

Pam Seigal, Rachel Phillips, and Debbie Millison concentrate on their music.

JAZZY JAMMERS

Every Thursday night, a group of Penn Wood students get together with band director, Mr. Lamar, and play Jazz music. Jazz is a more rhythmic style of music and focuses mainly on the brass and rhythm sections of the band.

This activity is totally extra curricular. The students are more than participants, they are volunteers. Although these dedicated students comprise only a small group, they produce really interesting combinations of music.

Practice is very intense. The Jazz band hopes to perform well at the Upper Darby Jazz Festival. This gala event takes place on March 28. It is an all day affair where famous jazz musicians will judge and help each band improve. The day will end with all the bands playing together for a concert that night.

The Jazz band is a very special group. Players are truly dedicated, interested, and they really enjoy the sounds and feelings that arise through Jazz music.

During her solo debut, Stacy Kerno draws attention from other band members.

CAPTURING

Nobody realizes the time actually spent on working on the yearbook, but despite the amount of work, people still seemed to enjoy themselves.

Under advisor Mr. Harry Haines, who organized yearbooks for 16 years, with Susan Becker and Bernadette Craskey, Co-Editor in Chiefs; Jill Bloom, Layout Editor; Amy Pearsall, Literary Editor; Becky Teafords, Photography Editor; and Abby DiPietro, Business Editor worked consistantly to keep the work organized and up to date. "We had our problems," said Jill Bloom, "We seemed to almost catch up with our deadline, and then something would come up and push us back another week or two." Sue Becker reflected upon her year saying, "During the year, when all the work piles up, I began doubting whether I had made the right decision to get involved, but when our yearbook came in, I really felt like I'd accomplished some real great feat."

A yearbook member expressed everyone's thoughts in saying: "After so many long hours of piecing the book together, it's a relief to finally have it completed."

Literary Editor, Amy Pearsall, struggles to improve yet another poor caption.

AFTER HOURS

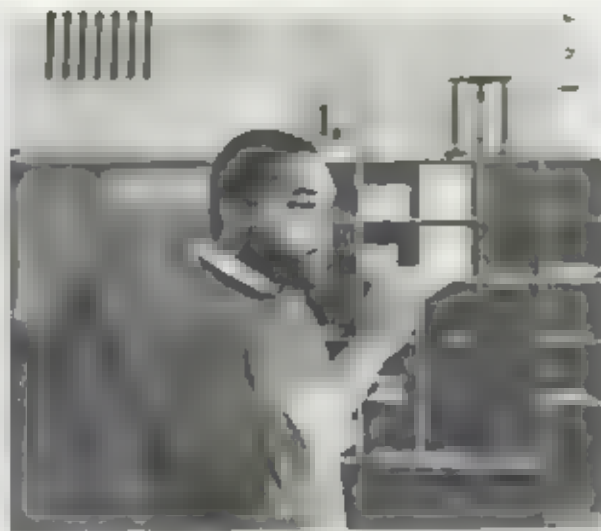

Penn Wood provides many extra-curricular activities for the student body. All of these activities need to be supervised. That's why there are advisors.

Advisors are teachers that stay after school to help and organize clubs. The reason most advisors do their job is to be able to get to know the students outside of the school day; likewise, students get to know the other sides of their teachers.

Most clubs are formed to provide students with leadership skills that will help them be better prepared for the "real world." That's why it's very important to have advisors; they are the ones who make activities all worth while.

Mrs. Ruth Cox, advisor to the choir and orchestra, enjoys the sound of music.

The 1986 marching band was a success due to the dedication of Mr. Ronald Lamar.

Miss Marie Beuclear enjoys the exciting role of National Honor Society group advisor. She especially enjoys this position at the time of the 21st & "carnation sale"

The thrill of academic competition is why Mr. David White advises Penn Wood's Scott H-I-Q team.

Believing that a yearbook is a student's most cherished school possession, Mr. Haines has been an advisor for 16 years.

Mrs. Geneva Spenatto and Mrs. Guendolyn Deas enjoy the fun and the challenges of being Junior Class advisors.

The organization of Future Business Leaders of America was established to give the student a competitive edge in the working world. FBLA, under the advisor Mrs. Wilczek, is dedicated to help students define their goals and prepare to advance in the business field. Participating students develop competence and leadership skills.

On Alumni Day, students met people from business schools and got an idea of what to expect in the future. Competition with other schools trained the students to cope with the pressures of business world. Those who were members will have a smoother transition from school to work.

FBLA sponsored the school store, Trading Post, St. Vincent's Christmas Party for abused and neglected children, Toys for Tots, and a Typeathon to benefit the Child Find Fund.

The FBLA officers of 1986-87 were: President Diane Barr, Vice President Myron Page, Treasurer Sue Jansen, Assistant Treasurer Ed Harding, Secretary Theresa Delaney, Reporter Melinda Everetts, and Historian Robyn Murray. All of whom made the whole FBLA experience a meaningful one.

Paul Koester anxiously awaits what he must do next.

FOR THE STUDENTS

In order to have a successful school year, there must be student representation. This year's student government consisted of president Michael Jackson, vice president Brian Mackey, secretary Vernita Blackwell, and treasurer Michael Pellegrino. The students chose these leaders at the end of the 85-86 school year, and they served the entire year.

Some of the activities from this year's council include maintaining the concession stand at football games, staging the Homecoming dance, and sponsoring the canned food drive. In the Spring, the council will be sponsoring the Red Cross Blood Drive.

After many long hours of work and frustration, the student council feels it has had another successful year. Many activities took place and many more are lined up for next year.

WASHINGTON D.C.

In January, four students, Barbara Romano, Heather Matoney, Debra Millison, Sandy Norman, and their teacher/advisor, Ms. Schaal, ventured forth to the nation's capital during the worst snow storm to ever hit Washington D.C.. The group sacrificed a week of school to get a first-hand view of the government. Through direct exposure to processes and people in Washington D.C., the students learned a lot. Penn Wood students traveled by bus with other Pennsylvania students to Washington and stayed at the Marriott in Arlington, VA, with groups from Kansas, Arkansas, Florida, and Georgia. The snow, almost two feet deep, slowed the group down at first, but the rest of the week was spent in seminars, workshops, and tours which gave students an inside view of the three branches of government and other influential institutions. Students also attended a live performance of "Hello Dolly," and a final banquet and dance.

At the end of their stay, there were a lot of tearful good-byes to new friends and memories that would last a lifetime.

MARVELOUS MINDS

Do you know the average velocity of a yellow-bellied European starling? If so, you belong on the Scott Hi-Q team. Hi-Q is a quiz game in which teams from different schools compete with one another. The questions asked deal with the knowledge a student may have learned in school or elsewhere. The topics range from Current Events to Mathematics to Shakespeare. The faculty advisor is Mr. David White, who led last year's team to an impressive fourth place finish among 21 schools. This year, he hopes to do even better. Because the matches are very competitive, a student must act quickly in hitting his buzzer. Says Senior Bob Mannion, "It's really frustrating when you know the the answer but can't respond because the other team buzzed in first." In their first match, the team defeated O'Hara and Chichester 25-22-22.

SUPER SOCIETY

National Honor Society is a prestigious organization for students who have shown excellence in four areas: leadership, academics, service, and character. Students have to maintain a 3.5 average as well as to be involved with activities both inside and outside of school.

Every year, in order to cover the fees of the Induction Service, which takes place in the spring, the members sell carnations for Valentine's Day. The sale usually goes well, and, to help keep prices down, the members are responsible for bringing refreshments to the Induction Service.

"I think it's important that we respect the Honors Society because it's one of the few things left which recognizes a high school student's academic achievement besides his athletic ability," one member remarked.

"When I heard my name called to come up on stage to accept my membership, I felt that it was the greatest thing to ever happen to me," another member reflected.

The officers for the 1987 National Honors Society were: Joanie Seelaus, President; Susan Becker, Vice President; Robert Mannion, Treasurer; and Amy Pearsall, Secretary. They worked hard and did the best they could at keeping everything organized.

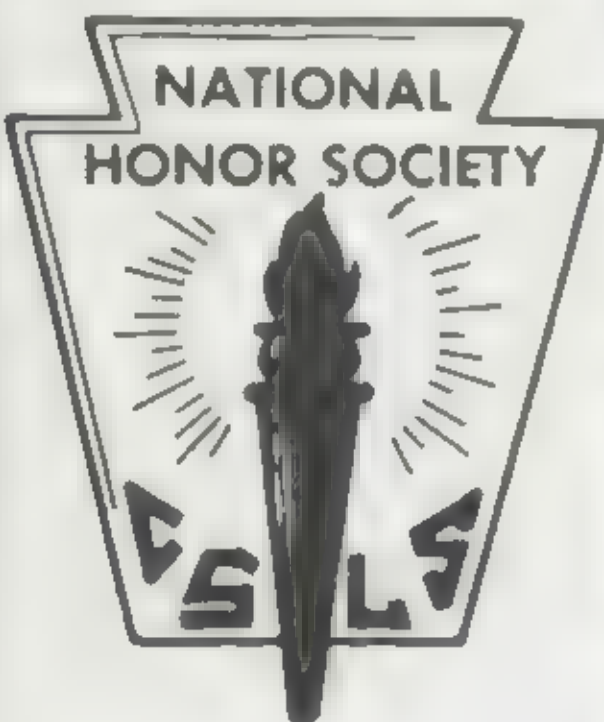

Advisor Miss Beucier helps members Sue Becker and Amy Pearsall take orders for carnations for Valentine's Day.

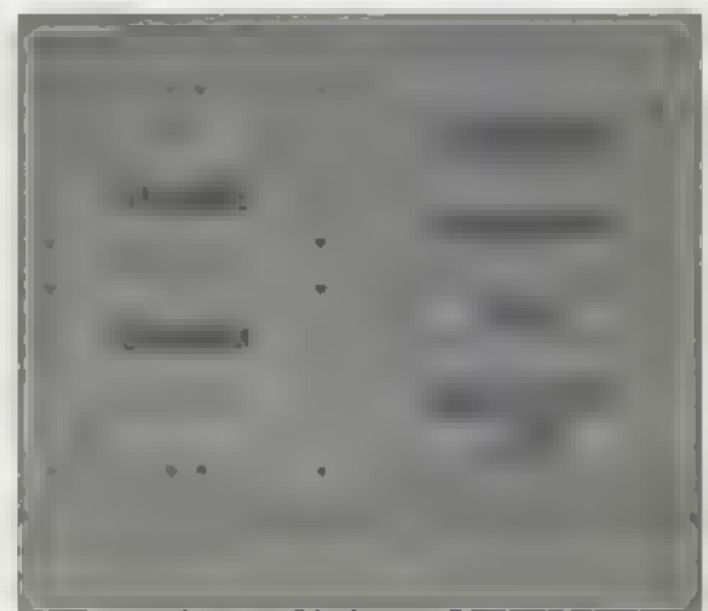

For me? asks senior treasurer Bob Mannion as he peers at the note on the carnation he's received.

Honor Society members Jen Haggerty, Nikki Barbieri, Linda Hom, and Margie Zeller pause while they work for a picture with Miss Beucier.

Arranging the carnations is just one thing Beth Stanton did for the Society this year.

Every year the Society sponsors a carnation sale. I wonder how many romances were ignited?

There are so many different kinds of music in our world today, and some of the top acts come to Philadelphia to show off their best stuff. A few of the popular groups that visited Philadelphia were Van Halen, Chicago, Run Dmc, ZZ Top, Lionel Richie, Elton John, Genesis, Bon Jovi, and Billy Joel. One major act that performed in Philly was the Monkees. They returned after 20 years to give a spectacular performance.

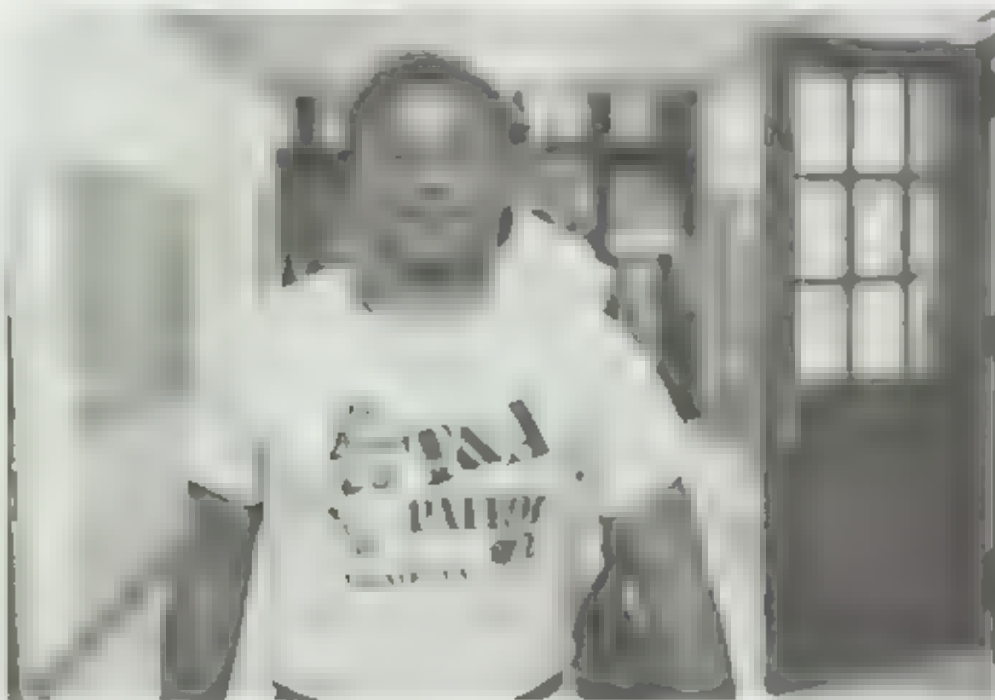

Concerts are a popular pastime for all age groups. Many people enjoy loud music, concert shirts, and especially the thrill of seeing the acts performed live.

Many people question fans about how they can afford to go when tickets alone can range from $10 to $30 and then if shirts and programs are wanted that's about $22 extra.

Even though concerts have advantages and disadvantages, the feeling of being there, hearing the music and seeing the artist's performance outweighs the disadvantages for PW's music lovers.

An important part of a teacher's evaluation of a student is how well the student compares with the teacher's expectations in class. This goes far beyond the obvious aspects such as homework assignments, quizzes, and tests.

Of course it's important to do well in these assignments, but there are many other things that a teacher may use to evaluate a student. As Mrs. Murphy said, "I want students to be intellectually curious and I want them to learn to think."

Class participation is very important to many teachers when they grade students. Usually, they are looking for a student who proves to be a valuable addition to the classroom.

Did you ever consider the importance of a #2 lead pencil in your educational experience? Without the number two pencil S.A.T. scores would come back to you with the score of zero; making you look like an idiot. The S.A.T.'s are a standard for what people call intellect. You could be a genius, but if you happen to use a #2.5 lead pencil instead of a #2, you're washed down the drain; finished; because the computer used to mark the answer sheets doesn't pick it up!

In school, the standardized I.Q. tests (as well as others) are given out, again, the #2 lead pencil plays a crucial role. It's absolutely necessary to use a number two pencil in these tests, if you don't, your I.Q. will be that of a vegetable!

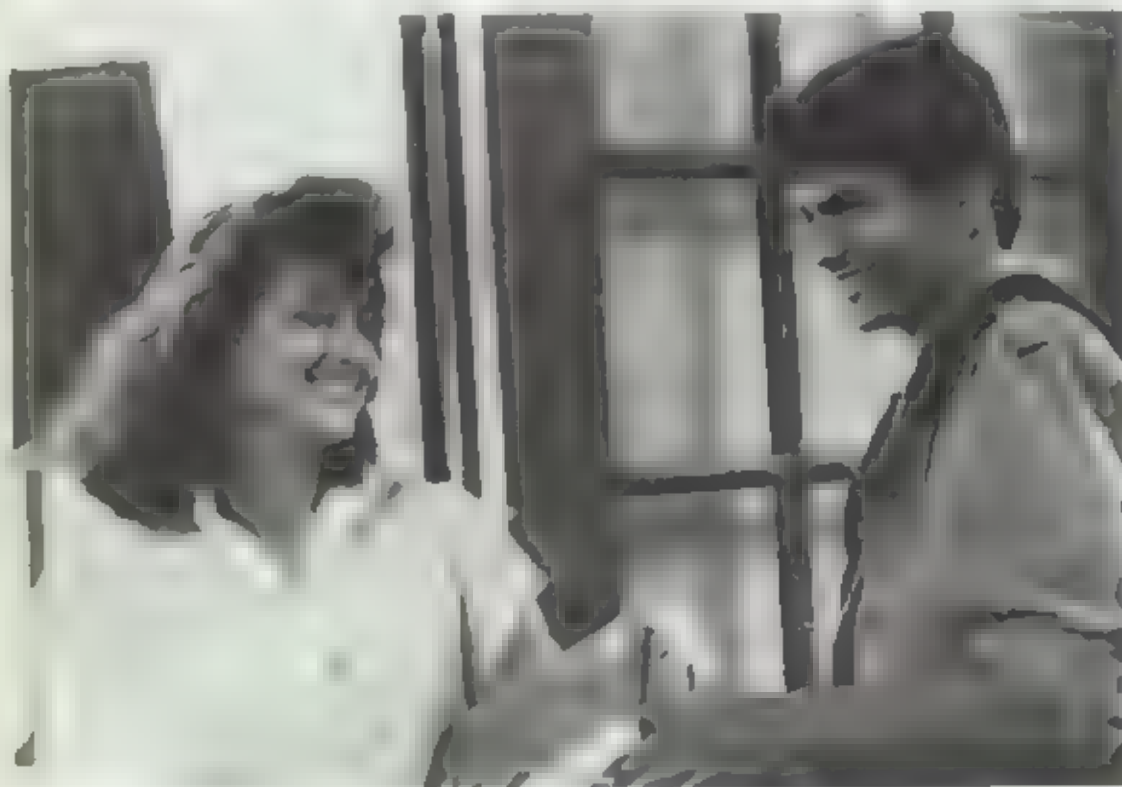

Personally, I find it amazing to reflect upon the value that the infamous #2 lead pencil has in our education. It's totally astounding to think that one's entire educational life is balanced precariously upon the tip of a #2 lead pencil

Money has always been in short supply for high school students. Proms, rings, yearbooks, clothes, food, gas, and dating are only a few of the activities for which students need money. For this reason, many of them turn to part-time jobs after school and weekends.

Many Penn Wood High students hold after-school and weekend positions. Some popular places of employment are stores at malls, fast-food places, and hospitals. Other jobs only occur at a certain time. Many stores start hiring in mid-November for the Christmas season while other students turn to life guarding at area swim clubs.

Having money from a part-time job is great, but there are also disadvantages. Holding a job cuts into homework, and social time not to mention the hours of sleep sacrificed. Often carefully laid plans are ruined because of a last minute call to work.

Don't let the disadvantages discourage you. Holding a part-time job gives you a sense of independence, responsibility and your own money to use as you please. In the long run, the experience is greatly worth while.

A date can become a tragedy for many high school students. Consider the nervousness in asking someone out, the time spent deciding where to go, the money forked out, and then, when it's over, getting the feeling that the whole date was a big flop. It is a tragedy.

One poor senior sighed, "I couldn't wait for it to end." So many times, only one person on the date realizes the catastrophe which is taking place. A sophomore complained, "She wouldn't leave me alone! She talked the whole time. I couldn't get a word in edgewise; then, she wouldn't stop calling me at home."

"It was boring," a junior said, "It was a freshman dance. It wasn't bad or anything. It's just that he talked about sports and his friends . . . It just wasn't exciting." One student, calmly reflecting upon her worst date, said, "We had nothing in common; therefore we had nothing to talk about."

Some people are fortunate enough not to have gone on a disastrous date. To those people, there is only one thing to say, "Congratulations, but don't press your luck."

Penn Wood High School carries on many traditions, one being Junior Ring Day. The ring symbolizes the unity each class shares among its peers. With every turn of the ring, more friendships are made. To see it sparkle gives each individual the hope for a brighter future.

This year Jostens offered a wide variety of rings from which juniors could choose. One could always opt for a classical ring or a fancier one of those in the After Five Collection. After anxiously waiting for weeks for the rings to arrive, they finally did with much excitement created by enthusiastic juniors. But little did they realize what task was ahead of them; to find '88 friends to turn their rings. As one junior put it, "It was worth the wait, but I was a little disappointed to find out I had paid so much for a fake gem."

Each individual ring will symbolize the memories of good times at Penn Wood High, both inside and outside of school. Even though the ring's luster may dim, the light it offers for remembrance never will.

Julie Fredrick, admiring her ring, thinks of friends she'll leave behind in a year.

Through the long year, Amy Parker and Jen Pierce became close friends, and now they share a precious moment as they turn each other's class rings.

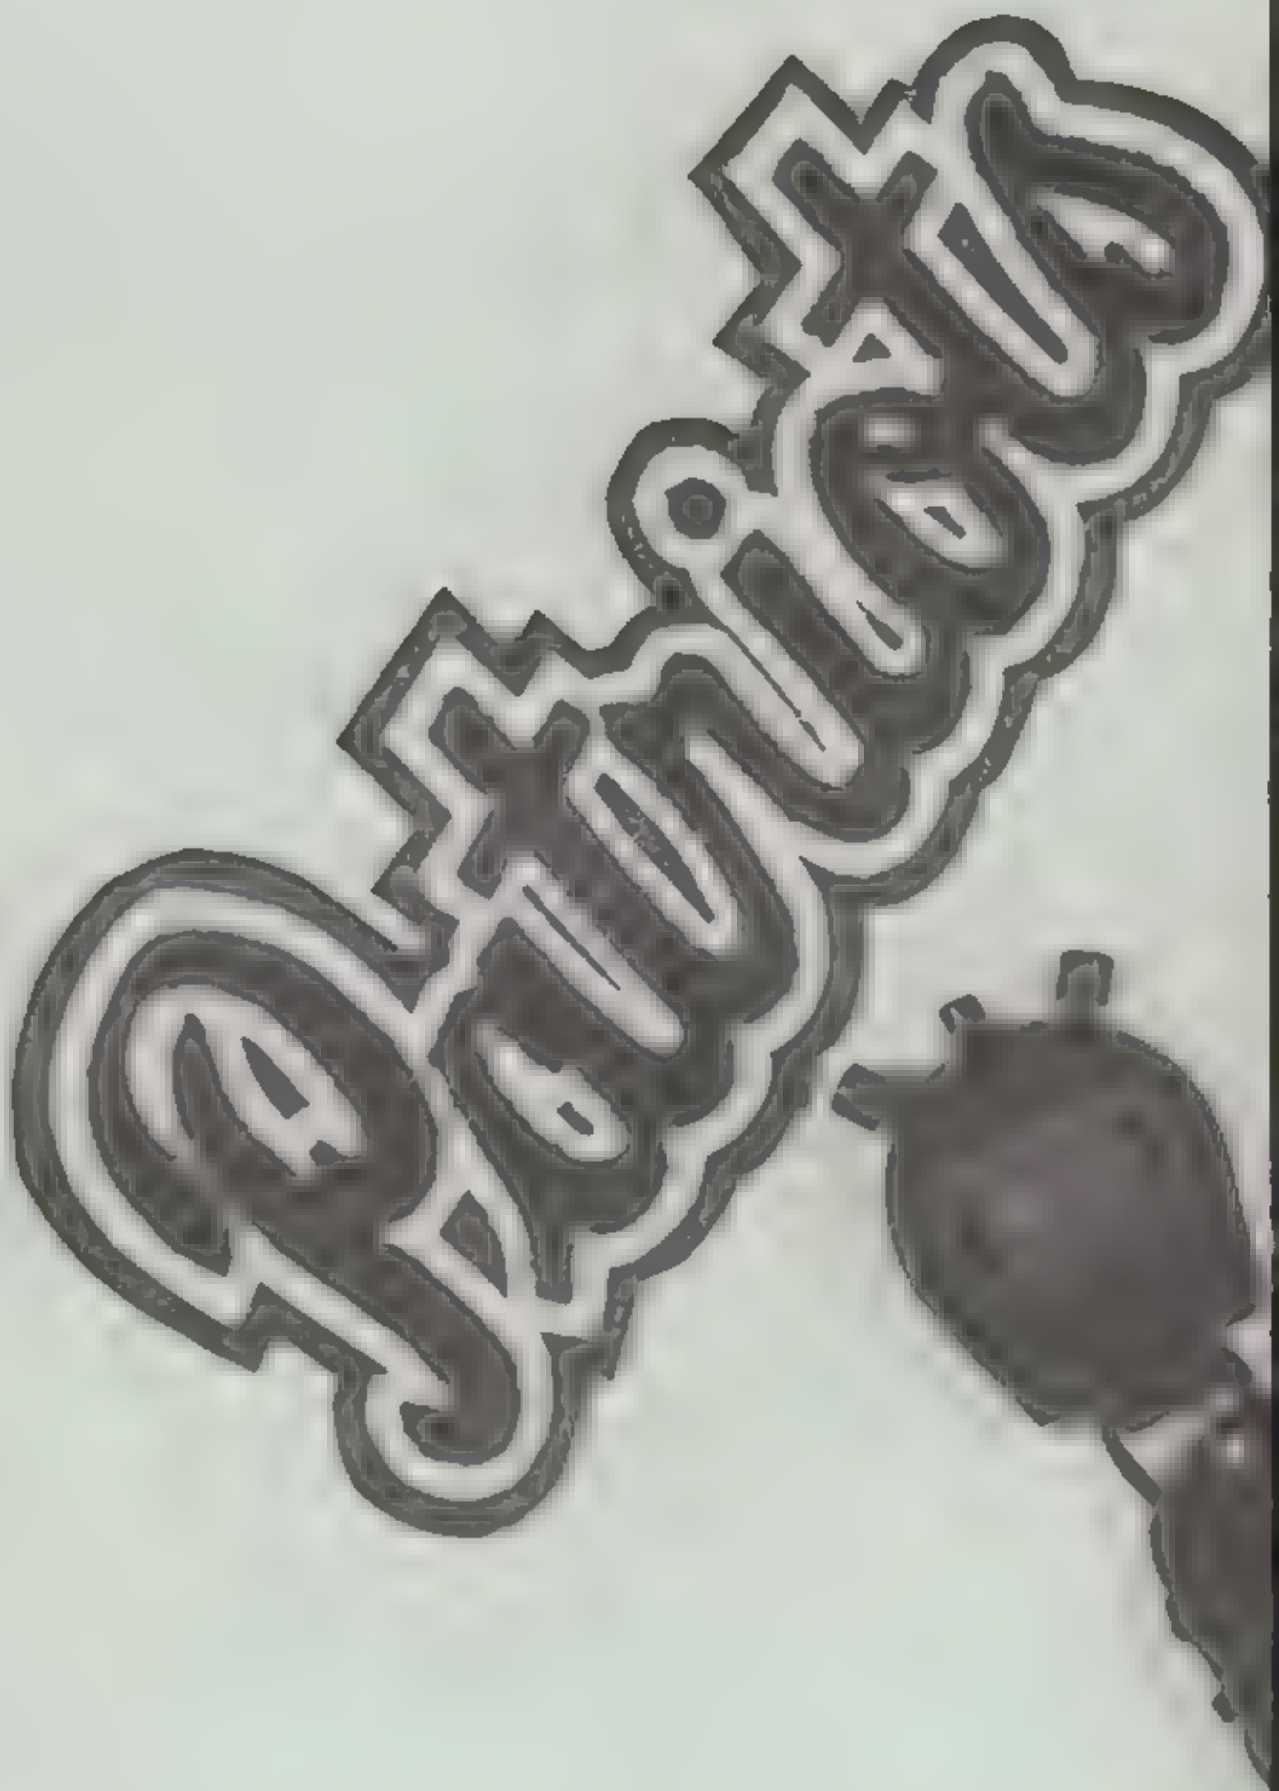

This year's Junior Class officers were: Carole Burns, Kathy Eliades, and Mike Pellegrino. The responsibilities of each officer were tremendous and were almost impossible to accomplish without the great help of their advisors Mrs. Deas, and Mrs. Spennato.

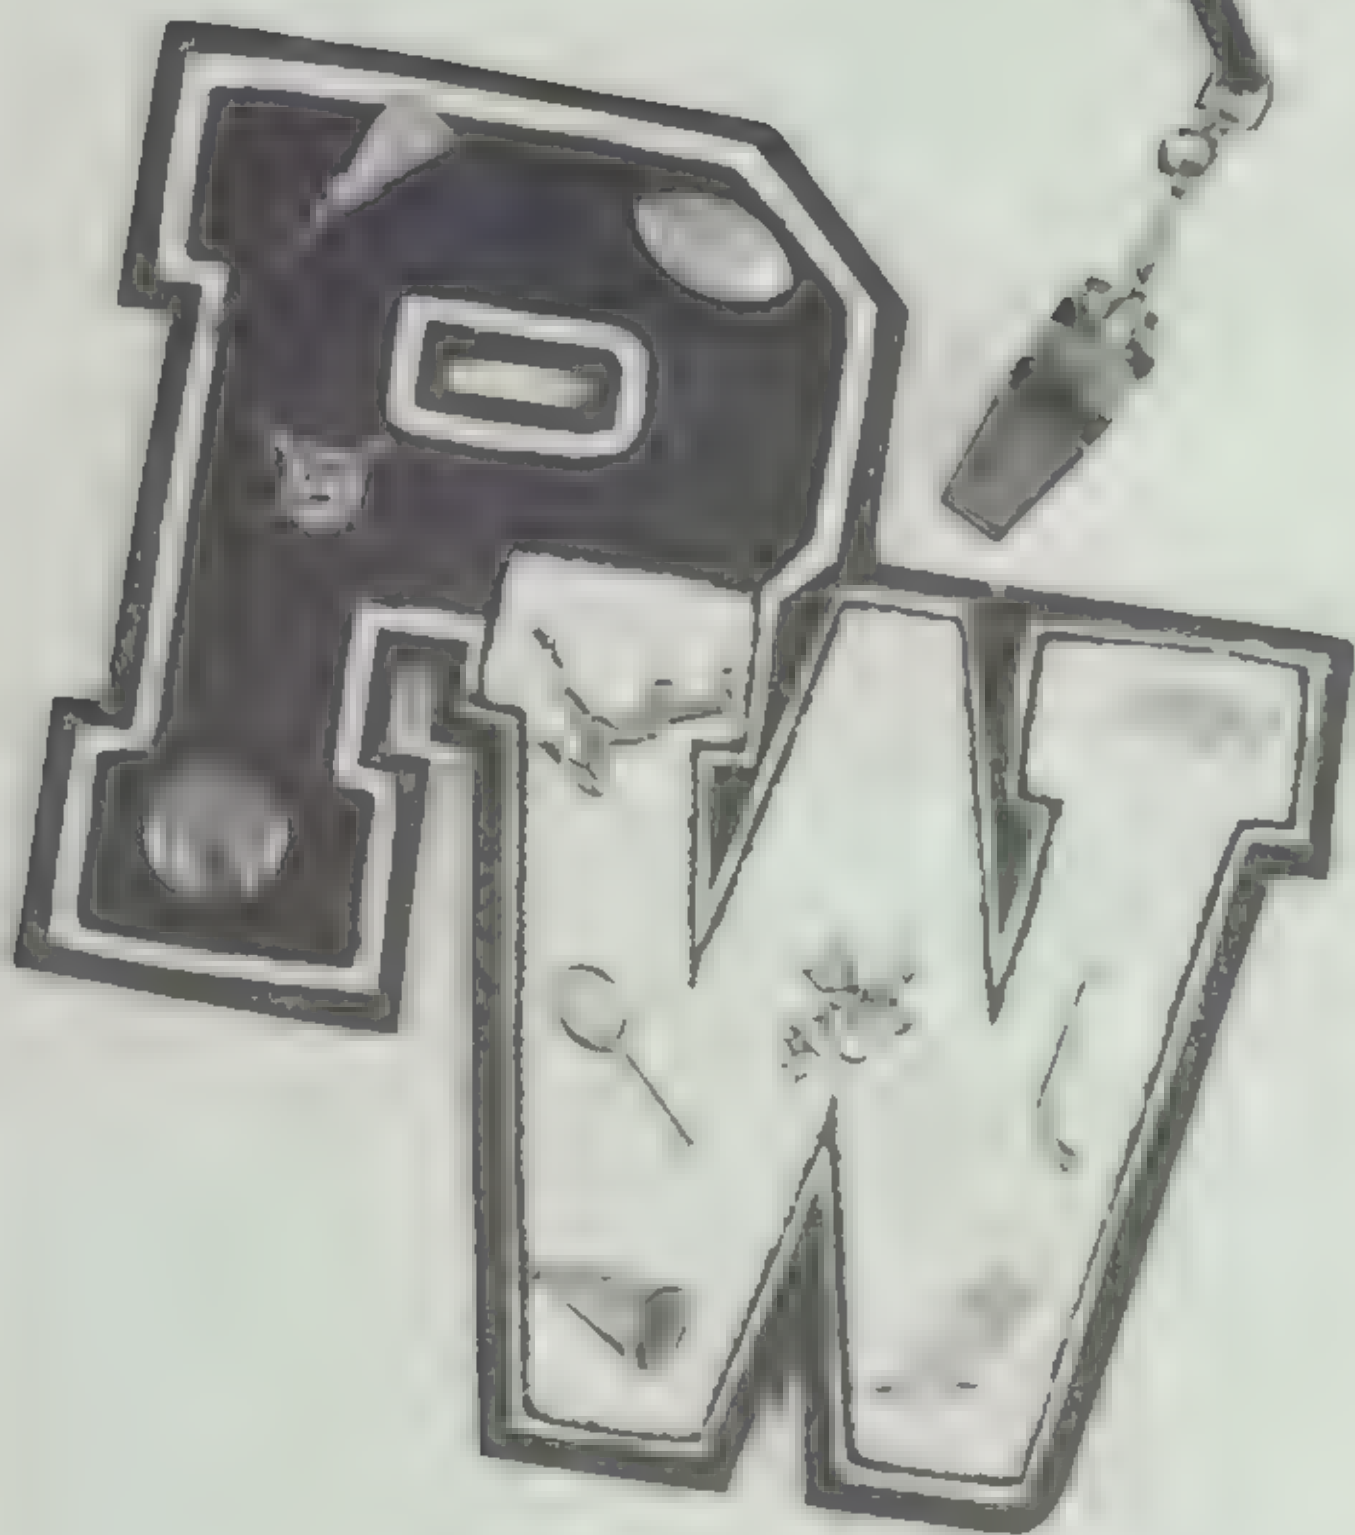

The most important responsibility of the officers was to coordinate the Junior Prom which took a lot of preparation and planning. Deciding on where it would be held, which D.J. would play the music, and picking a theme made the year a very busy one for the officers. Their jobs were made easier by the volunteer aid of Yvette Goldey and William Coleman, both of whom were commended for their help.

A decision on the place for the Junior Prom was reached. It was to be held at the Concordville Inn, a beautiful and romantic setting. The officers and advisors hoped that the juniors and their guests found it to be the most spectacular prom ever held.

SPORTS

A STRONG TEAM BOTH

In Penn Wood, Pride and Football are synonymous. The football team finished the season with a 9-2 record, the overall record in the DelVal league stood at 5-2

Due to the hard work and determination of the players, the Patriots ranked third in the county in offense adverting 297 yds. a game, and fourth in the county in scoring offense adverting 23 pts. a game. "Offensively, we were led by . . . Rodney Blackwell who set a school record for rushing over 1300 yds., and by Ted Novak who threw over 1000 yds." said Paul Koester.

Other key players were Dave Bailey leading the team in receiving yards, and Capt. Dave Wood, who rushed for around 800 yds.

Ranking fourth in the county in total defense, They gave up an adverage of 182 yds a game. "Defensively, we were strong all year round." said Steve Hayko. Dave Wood, Paul Koester, Steve Hayko, Tom Ramos, and Capt 's Anthony Paoletti and Tony DiLuzio led the defense

Their biggest upset was losing to Academy Park and Chester. "Our biggest thrill . . . was manhandling Glen Mills at our homecoming game. We beat them 17-6," said Ted Novak

The coaching staff was filled with head coach Mr. Guille, and Asst. coaches, Mr. Donoghue, Mr. Koshgerian, Mr. Leary, and Mr. Robinson. Statisticians were Wendy Herbert, Deanna Byrne, and Heather Berkysheiser

Overall, the team was dedicated and determined. They had "strong character in the face of difficulty, and dedicated themselves to getting better each week," said Mr. Guille. They went up against some tough odds, but they played hard, and as Shawn Frye put it, "we had a good season in every way."

TACKLING OUR WAY

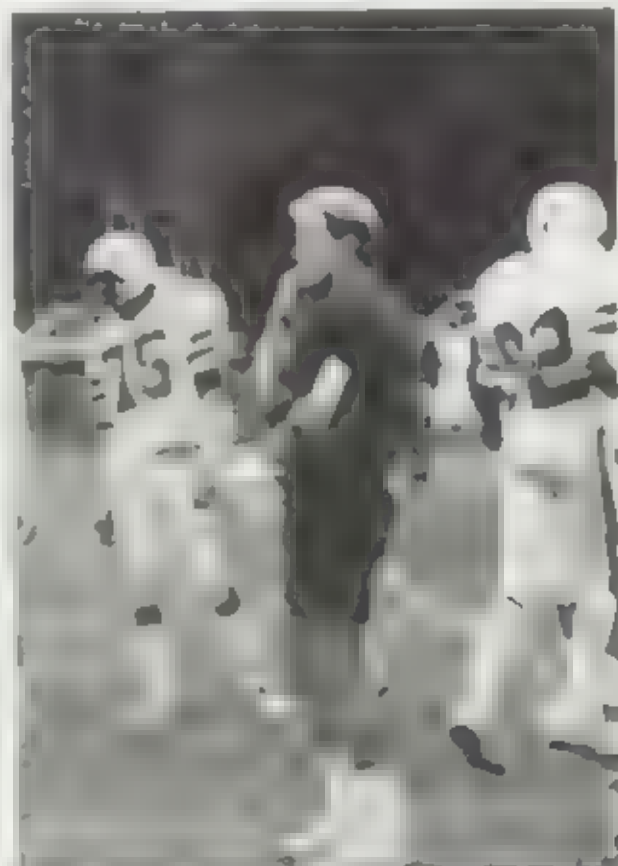

Under the direction of Mr. Koshgerian and led by captains Erwin Church and Kevin Martin, this year's J.V. football team performed exceptionally well. Their overall record was 8-0 and in league play 5-0.

What were the factors involved that helped to make this an undefeated season? Coach Koshgerian believed it was "the good blending of skilled players who worked hard and were dedicated to a winning attitude." A good example of this combination of ability and devotion was their 45-0 thrashing of Academy Park. With a never ending drive to be the best, all of the team members united to form one of the better J.V. teams in Penn Wood football history. Such players as Khalil Shearalds, Steve Broomall, Shawn Dillon, John Hopper and Warren Leach played with a strong eagerness to outdo their opponents. They, plus all their other teammates, made this season look like a snap.

The entire team collaborated to fulfill the goal of most athletic teams of being undefeated. The success of their records told other teams in the league to be on the lookout for yet another competitive varsity team next season.

PARTYIN' WITH

This year's Cheerleading Squad rocked the house. Under the direction of Mrs. Theresa Diamond and co-captains, Nikki Barbieri and Crystal Kendrick the squad kept that Penn Wood Spirit up, even in the agony of defeat.

Two very special additions to the squad this year were: a mascot, two year old Genna Stavecky; and a foreign exchange student, Norma-Alvelais Santos. Norma speaks only a little english, but she managed to overcome the language barrier and learn the words to all of the cheers. Genna is Captain Nikki Barbieri's niece; she cheered at all the home games.

Once again, the homecoming pep rally was a smashing success. The cheerleaders managed to unite the student body as one, giving the football team the support it needed to defeat Glen Mills.

This year, they appeared on the favorite teen show, "Dancin' On Air." With their dedicated spirit, there's no telling how high they will soar!

A KICK IN

The soccer team was among the best in the Del-Val league, though their record does not show it. The 5-4-1 Patriots, lead by co-captains, Paul McEvoy and Don Marchini, started and ended the season roughly, but with Coaches John Kuchmay and Steven Mescanti, it was a great season.

The team lost to both Harrington and Interboro twice, but they defeated third place team Sun Valley. Their biggest setback came when they tied Glen Mills, taking them out of playoff contention.

Despite their setback, the defense was #1 in the league. Senior defenders, Alan Roth and Seth Kuliszewski, held the team throughout the season by keeping the team from losing by more than one point. This recognition can be extended to players Scott McCarthy, Kurt Yerger, and Mike Pelligrino, and all the other members of the team.

VARSITY HOCKEY . . .

The 1986 hockey team was truly an excellent one. Team offense and defense was solid and complimented each other to form again, another number one Del-Val league team. This balance was shown by the team's M.V.P.s, offense player, Gerwayne Johnson and defensive player, Joanie Seelaus.

The team performed superbly during the playoffs and represented the Del-Val league very well. The team was ousted from state contention only after a hard third game in which the girls came back from a 3-1 deficit to tie the game, 3-3. Things progressed into two overtimes and finally into a grueling shoot off in which the team lost by one goal.

"Team members were very supportive of each other, they knew how to win and have known success since Junior High School", said Coach Pat McFall. Their success was demonstrated by having so many team members make it onto the Del-Val All-Star first and team.

The girls had talent and spirit. The combination of excitement and ability was carried throughout the season by supportive team co-captains, Deanna Bryne and Joanie Seelaus as well as the whole team. Being able to play up to it's potential benefitted the Penn Wood Girls Hockey Team this year. Hopefully next year's team will keep the streak going and claim a sixth consecutive Del-Val title.

J.V. HOCKEY . . .

Going From The Bottom To The Top!!!

The 1986-1987 J.V. Hockey team was a force to be reckoned with this year. Their outstanding record speaks for itself as they were undefeated in the Del-Val league.

Ironically, in August, Coach Chip Cifuni didn't think the team could win two games. He believed that their successful season was due to the girls' dedication and drive.

The four main objectives this season were to allow everyone to play, to have fun, to prepare for varsity competition, and to move up players onto the varsity team when there was an injury or an emergency, and that's exactly what they did! Many members of the J.V. team moved up to the varsity squad and helped out during the playoffs.

The high scorer was Katie Schwindt. Offensively, Maquita Alexander and Kim Eglin provided the power and the speed on the outsides. Danielle D'Anjolell, Kia Green, and Laurel Person were the main stars of the defense.

The J.V. team won both respect and a name for itself with its fine record and team spirit. Members of the team seem to have a bright varsity future record and team spirit. Members of the team seem to have a bright varsity future.

The 1986 Boys Cross Country Team was quite successful this year ending their season with a 10-4 overall record. Coach Jesson was quite pleased with this year's team. Leading the team were seniors, Dwayne Swann and Michael Jeffries and also, Junior, Bob Fuhrman. Dwayne Swann broke a school record set by Mark Fowler in years past and won the first ever Penn Wood Cross Country trophy. Dwayne is quoted saying, "You must be willing to perform to your highest potential in order to be among the best." He has certainly proved that statement this year. The highlight of the season was when the boys won the tiebreaker against Harriton. Mr. Jesson and all the boys should be proud of their fine season.

This team was the first Penn Wood running team to have a winning season, with the record of 4-2. Having tied Harriton for second place in the Del-Val league, this team produced quite a number of sensational runners. Most valuable runner and captain of the team, Margie Zeller, along with teammates Kia Green and Vanessa Thomas, made the All Del-Val league squad. Lots of superb performances surrounded the team this year. Margie Zeller recorded a 20:45 in distance competition, breaking the old school record by 7 seconds.

All of the girls contributed to make this, 1986 season, a new and exciting season in the history of Penn Wood Girls Cross Country team. It was a great effort by the whole team and coach, Mr. Jesson.

According to coach Sue Pierson this was "the most talented tennis team" she has ever coached. As a whole the team won 491 games and 38 matches. This placed them third in the Del-Val League and won them the Del-Val Sportsmanship award for the third year in a row, a feat never accomplished before by any team in the Delaware Valley.

Everyone improved this year. After first losing one double's match to Harrington, Deana Romanelli and Lori Carroll came back to beat them in their second meeting. Miss Pierson believes the team "shows great promise". Eleventh and tenth graders Julie Frederick, Amy Parker, Jennifer Mannion, and Heather Swanson have improved their skills greatly. Such returning players may aid in possible first place contentions in years to come.

Even though the whole team contributed to the team's success, junior Lan Van was the most valuable player. She earned and held the number one position throughout the entire season.

Giving their final bows were senior co-captains, Amy Carberry and Holly Gillen, seniors Michelle Boornazian and Tanya Bell. The seniors were great attributes to the team, but next year's team plans to do even better. "Overall we had a very good season", said Coach Pierson.

The Volleyball team didn't have a very lucky season. Even though they only won one game, they kept their spirits high. With Coach Nagle, and captain Betsy Castor, they kept smiles on their faces throughout the season. The season began with both a varsity and a junior varsity team, but due to some difficulties these teams were merged together as one. The greatest factor that attributed to the team's overall record "was the lack of participants", as stated by Coach Nagle. Another problem was not knowing who would show up for the games and practices.

Some of the original players were Betsy Castor, Ann Marie Stanton, Diana Thompson, Joan Haughey, Tracy Alter and Kim Christiansen. Managers Shelly McDonnough and Jana Rogers did a good job of keeping the team in order and both contributed widely to the keeping the team united. It was a fairly new experience for sophomores Nanette Benfatti, Rosalind Gadson, Terra Gilcrease, and Sandy Norman, but they made the most of it. Seniors Consueila Thompson and Maria Rogers and junior Kim Rogers played their hardest and enjoyed meeting their new teammates and making new friends. The only injury was when Betsy Castor pulled some ligaments and was out for the end of the season. Overall it was a good season; several good friendships were made. Good luck to the team for an even better season next year!

CASSANOVAS

This year has brought many challenges for the boys varsity basketball team. This was the first year for "Chip" Cifuni as head coach. He proved he was "the man for the job." The team started out with twelve players and by the end of the season had nine left, including two players who were moved up from JV, Billy Proctor and Kevin Ashton.

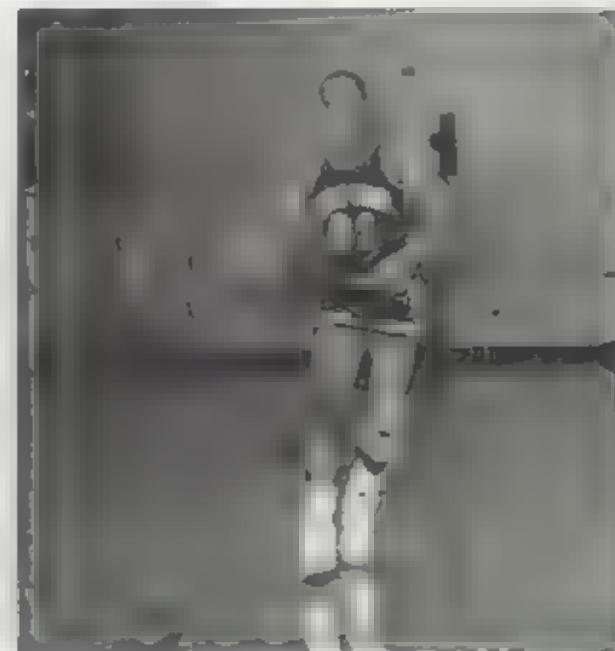

This year's team captains and the two most valuable players were Deane Awkard and David Bailey. These two guys did more for the team in one season than anyone could ever expect. David Bailey landed a spot on the Daily Times athletic Honor Roll for his consistent superb performance.

On the boards for Penn Wood was Ray "Smoke" Brown. Smoke led the team in rebounds and proved that summer league competition definitely made him more aggressive. This is one factor that helped him go from a JV player to one of the best eleventh grade Varsity players on the team.

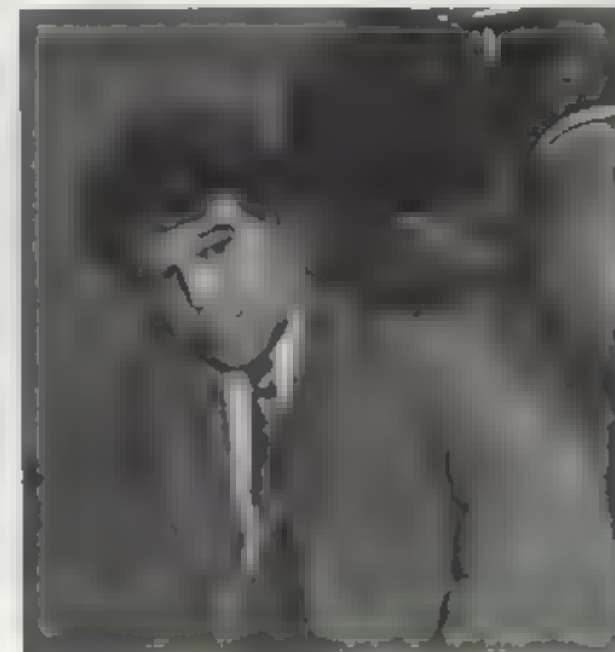

Even though the team had some losses, all the wins and hard work made up for it. It's good to know that Penn Wood has such fine players to continue a growing tradition of great basketball.

THE BIG FIVE

This year's Junior Varsity Boy's Basketball team ended their season with a 13 and 8 record overall. This was a great success considering the loss of many players due to academic ineligibility. The team started the year with twelve players and closed out their season with only five: Jonathan Dickerson, Eric Menear, Jeff Beaureguard, Daryl Blue, and Kevin Carter. The Junior Varsity was coached by Frank Ridpath. Mr. Ridpath teaches at Penn Wood East Junior High School in Yeaton, but faithfully came to every practice, scrimmage, and game whether it was at 2:30 or 6:30 at night. Through the cooperation of a hard working team and a supportive coach, the 86-87 Junior Varsity Boy's Basketball team toughed it out and played a great season. CONGRADULATIONS extended to the remaining players who went up to the Varsity team for the Playoffs!

The girls worked and practiced very hard and it showed. As each game passed, one saw the improvements in each girl's performance.

"WE DON'T TAKE NO MESS," one of PW's favorite cheers echoes through the gym.

Even though our gymnastics team did not have an undefeated season or win a championship, they did get off to a good start by winning the first two meets. However their victories were short lived because later on in the season they were plagued by injuries which really limited the abilities of the team. As individuals they each improved their gymnastic skills by developing and executing their own routines on such apparatus as the balance beam, the uneven bars, the vault and the floor.

The entire team consisted of 11 gymnasts, two managers, and two coaches. The team captains Nancy Parker, Margie Zeller, and Heather Berkeyheiser helped to keep the team going by supplying unending spirit. Maria Rogers and Betsy Castor, the managers, were also a big help to the team by keeping statistics, not to mention order. Coach Sweeney and Coach Guille helped the girls to develop and perfect their routines, so they would be ready for the meets.

Although the gymnastics team has only been in existence for five years, each year the team improves and we can be very proud of them for through it all they had a lot of fun.

This year's girls varsity basketball team had a tough season. Their league record ended as a two win, ten loss season. According to Coach Nagle, this was one of the most inconsistent teams she has ever coached. She also claims that the factor of poor attendance attributed to the team's overall record. The team captains were Barb Wood and Katie Schwindt. Barb, who will be graduating in June, will leave the job up to Katie next year. Good Luck Katie! The Delaware County Daily Times added a new twist to their high school sports section, entitled "Athlete of the Week". Each week, one girl and one boy from the county receives special recognition and a plaque commemorating his or her achievement. This year, Dawn Watson was awarded this honor for her dedicated play. Congratulations, Dawn! To the members of the team who will be returning next year, "Keep your eyes on the basket, your hands on the ball, and shoot for two."

THE LADIES OF THE COURT, Kathy Schwindt, Corretta Farrel, Barbara Wood, Dawn Watson, (Bottom) Megan Murray, and Coach Sandy Nagle discuss strategy for the second half. They are certain to try their best, as they have in previous games.

The Junior Varsity Girls Basketball team had a tough season with three wins and nine losses. "The girls were probably the hardest working and best hustling team that I've ever coached," said Coach Krueger. He believed that the girls played well as a team, but still had some tough games.

This year's most valuable player was Kim Stickles. Kim was a hard working, spirited, and devoted player. She dribbled well, shot well, and all together, played excellently.

The team seemed to play every other team with great determination through to the last game of the season. Each of the girls worked separately but needed the others to determine the outcome of what would happen next.

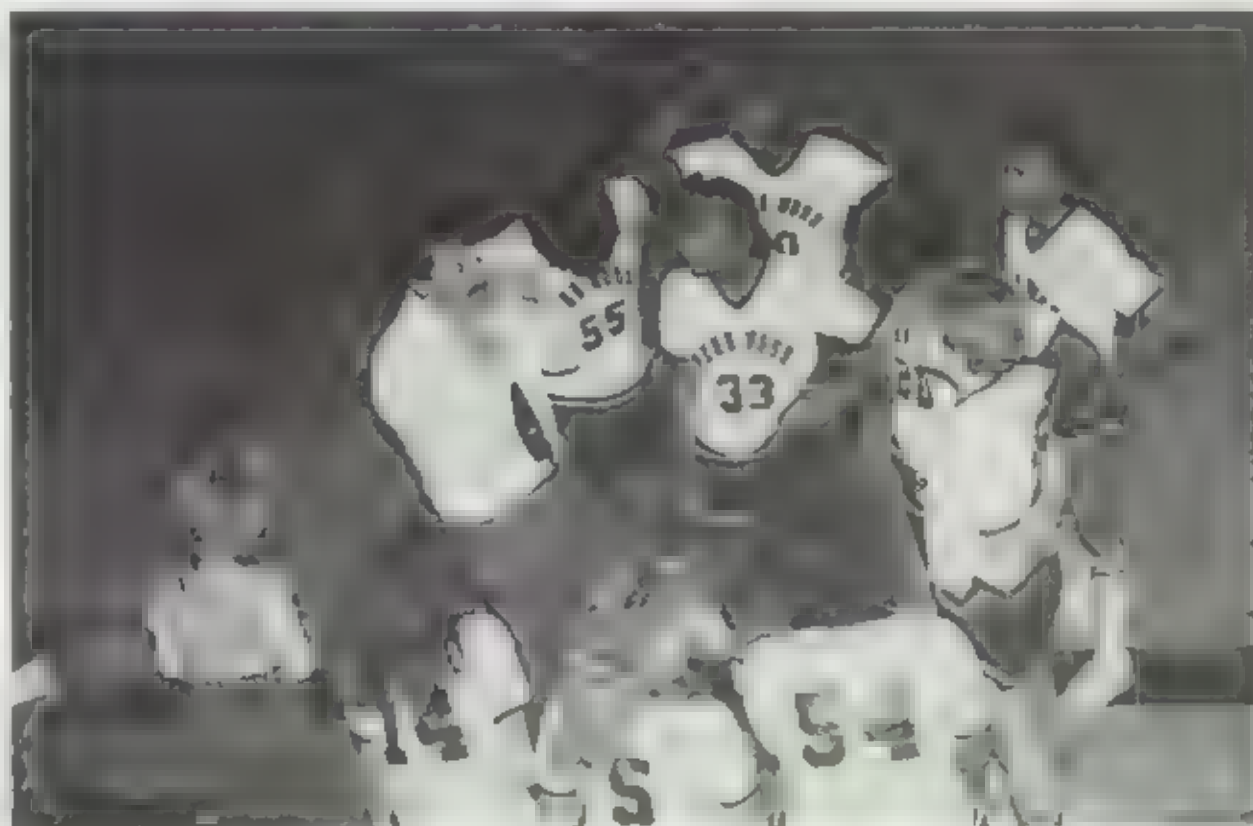

Whether a loss or a win, the each girl played with pride and feeling; that's one thing that made the girls not only teammates, but friends who stayed close both on and off the court.

FAST TIMES IN

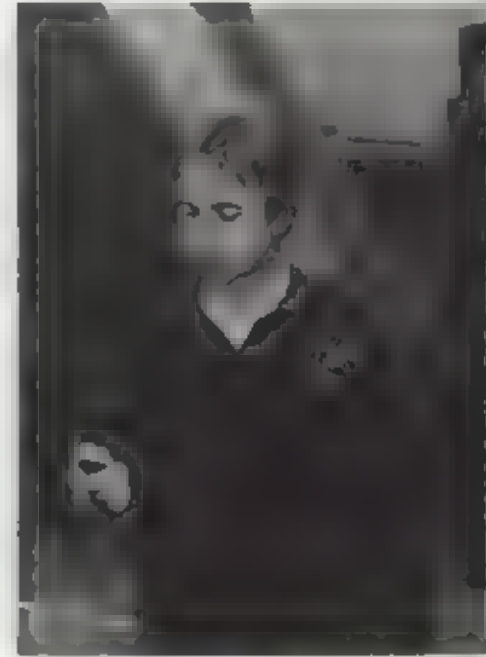

The Boys Indoor Track Team, through talent, dedication and hard work, contributed to Penn Wood's pride. Coach Robert Jesson stated that the team was unique because it was fairly young with only 5 seniors, while the rest were juniors and sophomores.

Mark Whitsett was number one in the state for hurdling. The team's hurdlers were considered as the best in the state. Team members Harold Gorom, Adrian Johnson, Jay Branche, Mark Whitsett, And Bob Furman broke school records this year.

With tremendous speed and agility the team produced talented athletes and fine sportsmen. Their success can be attributed to their long practices and hard work in the 2nd floor hallway.

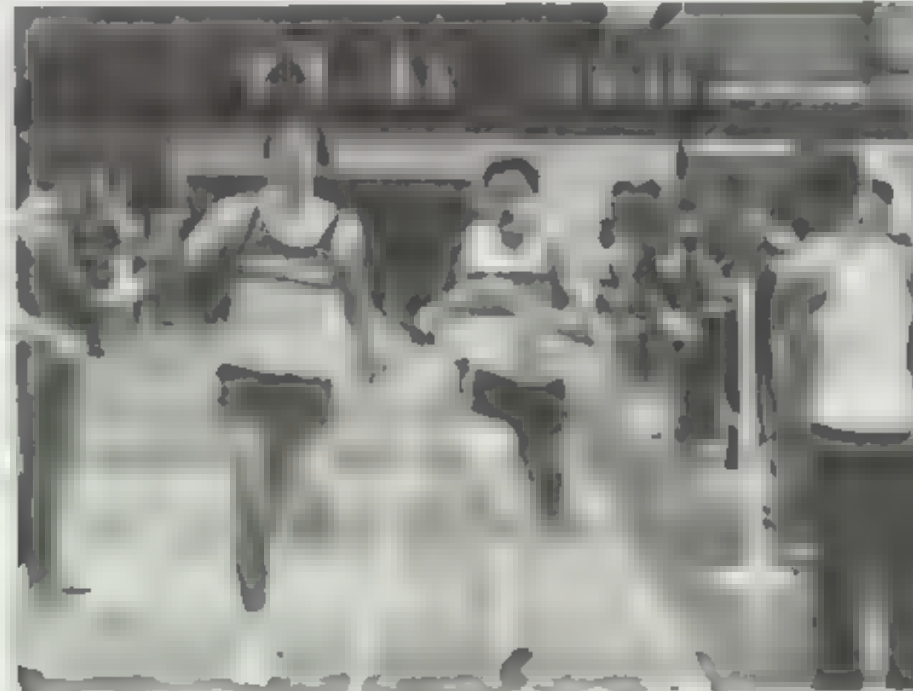

Senior Van Copeland says to himself, "Just one more lap to go!"

Coach Jesson concentrates on taking stats for his runners in order to help them improve on their times.

Billi Matthews, determined to win his race, puts some extra energy into his running.

Fran "Julio" Hassel gets the edge over his opponents by taking the inside lane as they hit the turn.

Sam "Sambo" Branche puts a final burst of energy into his jump over the last hurdle.

After taking a huge lead, Ed Bodner can just cruise to the finish line.

Freshman Chris Furman, being as good a student as he is an athlete, takes time out to do some homework.

The Girls' Indoor track team was made up of lively, motivated and competitive athletes. The team was young consisting of mostly juniors, but that didn't stop them from doing their best. Three freshmen from Penn Wood East joined the senior high students and contributed their talent to make a successful and proud team. The freshmen were Lynesia Crawford, Michelle Jefferies and Tasha Bey.

This year's captain was Javohn Williams. Javohn qualified for States on the sixty yard dash. She led the team proudly. Javohn was hard working and successful in whatever she was doing. She will be greatly missed next year.

This year's Girls' Indoor Track team was the largest one that Penn Wood has ever had. Some of these girls broke old records: Lana Womach (50 yd hurdles), Lorraine Rivelle (1000m, 2 mile), Kiya Green (300 yd, 300m, 4X440), Margie Zeiter (3200m), and Nikki Heath, Kiya Green, and Vanessa Thomas (4X440).

The girls placed 5th at the Delco meet and many of them qualified for States. The team really worked hard to accomplish the great success they had during the year.

READY TO MAKE HER MOVE, Maura Touey approaches the last few hurdles.

SENDING PW ON ITS WAY to winning a relay, Kiya Green makes an excellent hand-off.

As the 1987 Wrestling season drew to an end, the varsity Patriots were sitting contently in fourth place. The patriots started the season by defeating their first eight opponents. The first real challenge came when the Pats faced the undefeated Sun Valley team. Though this match came as Penn Wood's first loss, the strong hearted team pushed onward. The Pats were seated in fourth after losing to the first and third place teams, Chichester and Harriston.

The team captains were Dave Wood (155), Tony Diluzio (HWT), Mike Brockenbrough (145), and Ralph Crawford (112). The captains led the team to defeat Malvern Prep for the first time in Penn Wood's history.

The team did produce three sectional finalists. Dave Wood and Mike Brockenbrough each placed third in their weight class, and Tony Diluzio placed first. These wrestlers will go on to districts and hopefully farther than that.

Long hours (13 per week), hard practices, and strict dieting were the basis for this year's success. "The outcome of this year's season was not what we had expected. We wanted at least first place in the league," said Coach Palis, the former JV coach. "We had the power this year to do it, but we were unable to meet our potential."

UP AND COMING

"Practice makes perfect" is just the right quote for the wrestling team which practiced every day after school. They also practiced some Saturday mornings and over Christmas vacation. This proved beneficial as the 1986-87 J.V. wrestling team ended with good season overall. With some injuries, the team still won quite a few matches. Bryan Becker and Andre Winstead both continued to wrestle with a sprained knee and broken nose, respectively. Under the coaches of Mr. Koshgerian and Mr. Palis, the team had some trouble making weight. But even though the team had its difficulties, they also had highlights. One such was when they went undefeated against the Avon Grove J.V. squad. Making all this possible were the line performances of few of the players. Most undoubtedly the most valuable member of the team was Kirk Harrison who wrestled at a strong 167 lbs. With many varsity wrestlers graduating this year, many of the J.V. players are looking forward to wrestling on the varsity team next year.

After a long and hard match, the team congratulates the opponents on their fine performance. Penn Wood came out on top of his bout.

Magnificent Managers

A manager's job is an involved one. Too often, managers don't receive any credit. Their responsibilities are many: they keep score, support players, set up, clean up, and do extra things for members of the team. They're the all-around helpers of the team.

Some of the managers were:

Football: Heather Berkeyheiser, Keith Brunson, Deanna Byrne, Wendy Herbert

Field Hockey: Theresa Petrovics

Volleyball: Shirley McDonnough

Girls Tennis: Barbara Mould

Wrestling: Wendy Herbert

B-Basketball: Diana Botta, Lynne Giammarco, Crystal Kendrick, Barbara Romano, Beth Stanton

G-Basketball: Jodi Mina, Patty Roesner, Karen Reed

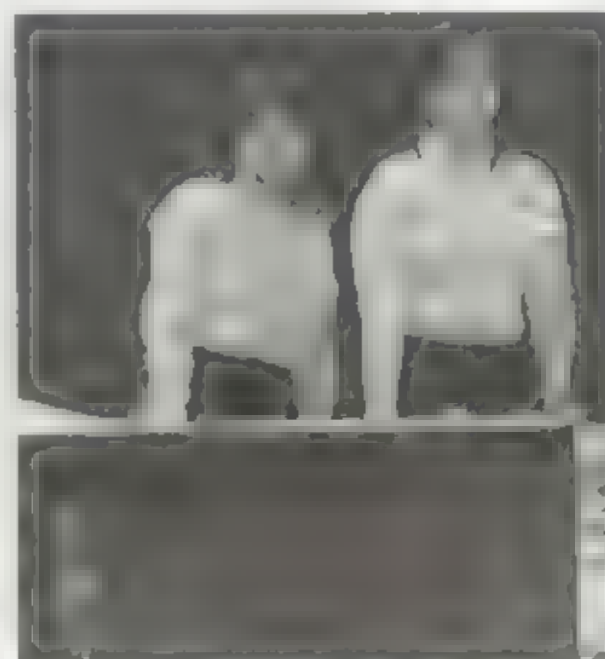

In addition, a manager is an important person who dedicates his/her time to a sport and his/her help to the coach. Managers are an important part of any team.

Boys Indoor Track Managers: Becky Teaford and Cindy Menesley.

Girls Basketball Manager: Jodi Meena.

Gymnastics Managers: Maria Rodgers and Betsy Caator.

Field Hockey Manager: Theresa Petrovics.

Girls Basketball Manager: Patty Roesner.

Boys Basketball Managers: Crystal Kendrick, Diane Botta, Beth Stanton, Lynne Giammarco. (missing: Barbara Romano)

WINNING WAYS

TEAM CAPTAIN, Joan Seelaus' agility and talent helped to lead P.W. to another championship.

From the beginning of Penn Wood High School in 1982, there has been a growing athletic tradition of winning. As proved by the numerous banners hanging in the gym, we have excelled in lacrosse, track, field hockey, football, baseball, and volleyball. But of all those sports teams mentioned, none has proven themselves better than the girl's field hockey team. This past season, they achieved a goal that is to be commended; they won their fifth consecutive Del-Val league championship. Three titles have been won under Ms. Debbie Gallagher, and the last two under Mrs. Pat Crowther McFall. It's clear to see that direction and guidance have aided all of the teams. To switch coaches and remain successful is a true sign of their success. To have taken easily to their coaches, and to their teammates, has been a factor that has had much affect on this winning streak. Having the skill of working together as a unit is something that isn't taught in a practice, but is there through friendship. On the playing field, the girls work as a family and have been able to keep that unity throughout these five seasons.

It's the bond of friendship between team players and coaches who are dedicated to each other that has given the girl's field hockey teams the ability to win and create, for themselves, this special honor of recognition.

BATTLING FOR THE BALL, Nikki Heath aggressively extends her stick.

CLOWNING AROUND before a game, Gerwayne Johnson and Amy Pearsall show their spirit.

THREE CHEERS FOR

A coach's job is never done. Not many people realize the time and effort put into leading a sport team. Without realizing the amount of responsibility a coaching position encompasses, many individuals crumble under pressure.

Accepting a coaching position is a decision that must be well thought about and all the aspects must be taken into consideration. Do I have enough time? Am I an experienced leader? Have I had experience with this sport? A good coach is one who is able to withstand pressure, maintain order, and pay attention to details.

A coaching position is a very important one. Many of the hours put into the sport are volunteer, and much preparation is needed to keep the team together. Many times a coach must get emotionally involved and offer guidance to his/her players. Sometimes a coach is a good person to turn to, whether the problem is academic, athletic, or personal.

Overall, a coach must be a well-rounded person. He/she must know the meaning of the word commitment and be prepared to dedicate his/herself to the team. Three cheers for the coaches!

SUPPORTING CAST

Preparing food, cleaning classrooms, and caring for the school are just some of the duties that the cafeteria ladies and the custodians are responsible for. Contrary to what you may think, the floors don't clean themselves magically, and the dishes are not cleaned by the dish fairie. Instead, all this work and more is done by a group of dedicated individuals who put in long hours to provide the best for PW's students. Without these fine men and women, our classrooms would not be cleaned and our lunches would not be provided. Just think, you walk into the school and no one cleaned the building the night before. It would be a pigsty. So don't take these people for granted. They are an important part of the Penn Wood community. Let's hope that they keep up the good work.

ADDED EDUCATORS

Mrs. Theresa Diamond, a graduate of Villanova University, came to Penn Wood as a Biology teacher.

Formerly a teacher at Penn Wood East Junior High Dr. DiCostanzo now teaches English at the High School.

Replacing Miss Fritz, Mr. Lamar comes to us this year as the new band director.

This year, Penn Wood High added eleven new teachers to its already large staff. These teachers were placed in different departments and came to us from different colleges and secondary schools.

The business department gained Mrs. Williams and Miss McCounry. Mrs. Williams teaches business math and general accounting 1. She also coaches the track team. She enjoys the school and teaching in the Annex. Miss McCounry graduated from Moorehead State University and teaches typing I and business organization and management. This is her first teaching job and she is adjusting well.

The math department acquired Mrs. Arimoto, a basic geometry and computers teacher. She came to us from Chichester Junior High.

The home economics department also gained two teachers this year. Mrs. Yeager returned to teaching after 17 years and finds it is just as enjoyable now. Mrs. Haas, a former Lansdowne-Aldan graduate, teaches home ec. with Mrs. Yeager. Mrs. Haas has been a cheerleading coach for 14 years in the Abington District.

Penn Wood East Jr. High upgraded two teachers to the High School level. Mr. Mescanti, the soccer coach, teaches industrial arts this year. Dr. DiCostanzo returned to the High School to teach english. He was the former department head at Lansdowne-Aldan.

Two other novice teachers have joined us this year. Mr. Lamar, the new band director, said he began his musical studies in 7th grade. Mrs. Diamond, a graduate of Villanova University, joined us as the new biology teacher. She is also the cheerleading coach.

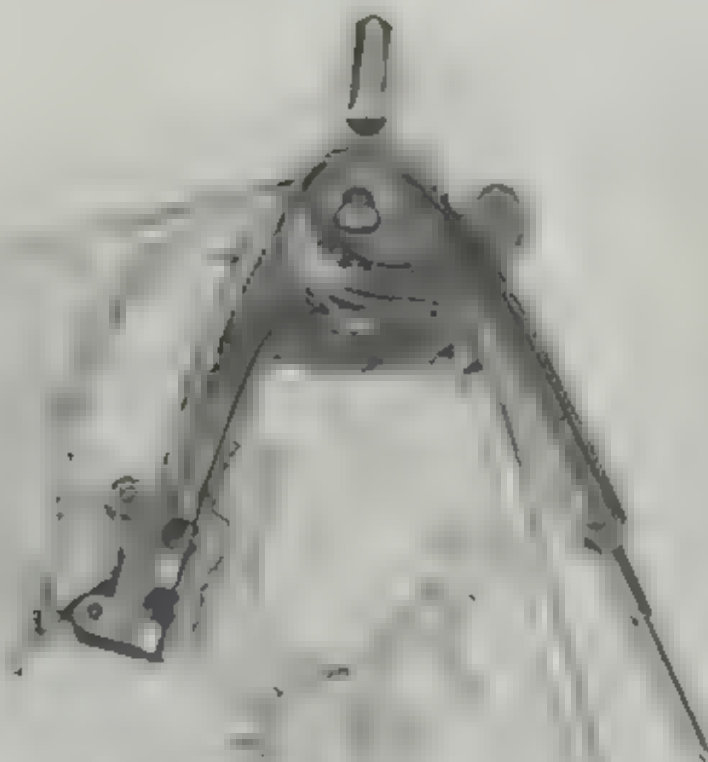

The phys. ed./health department, football team, and softball team have each gained a new leader this year. Mr. Robinson came to us this year from Don Quanelia, a school for the mentally retarded. He enjoys the school and his responsibilities.

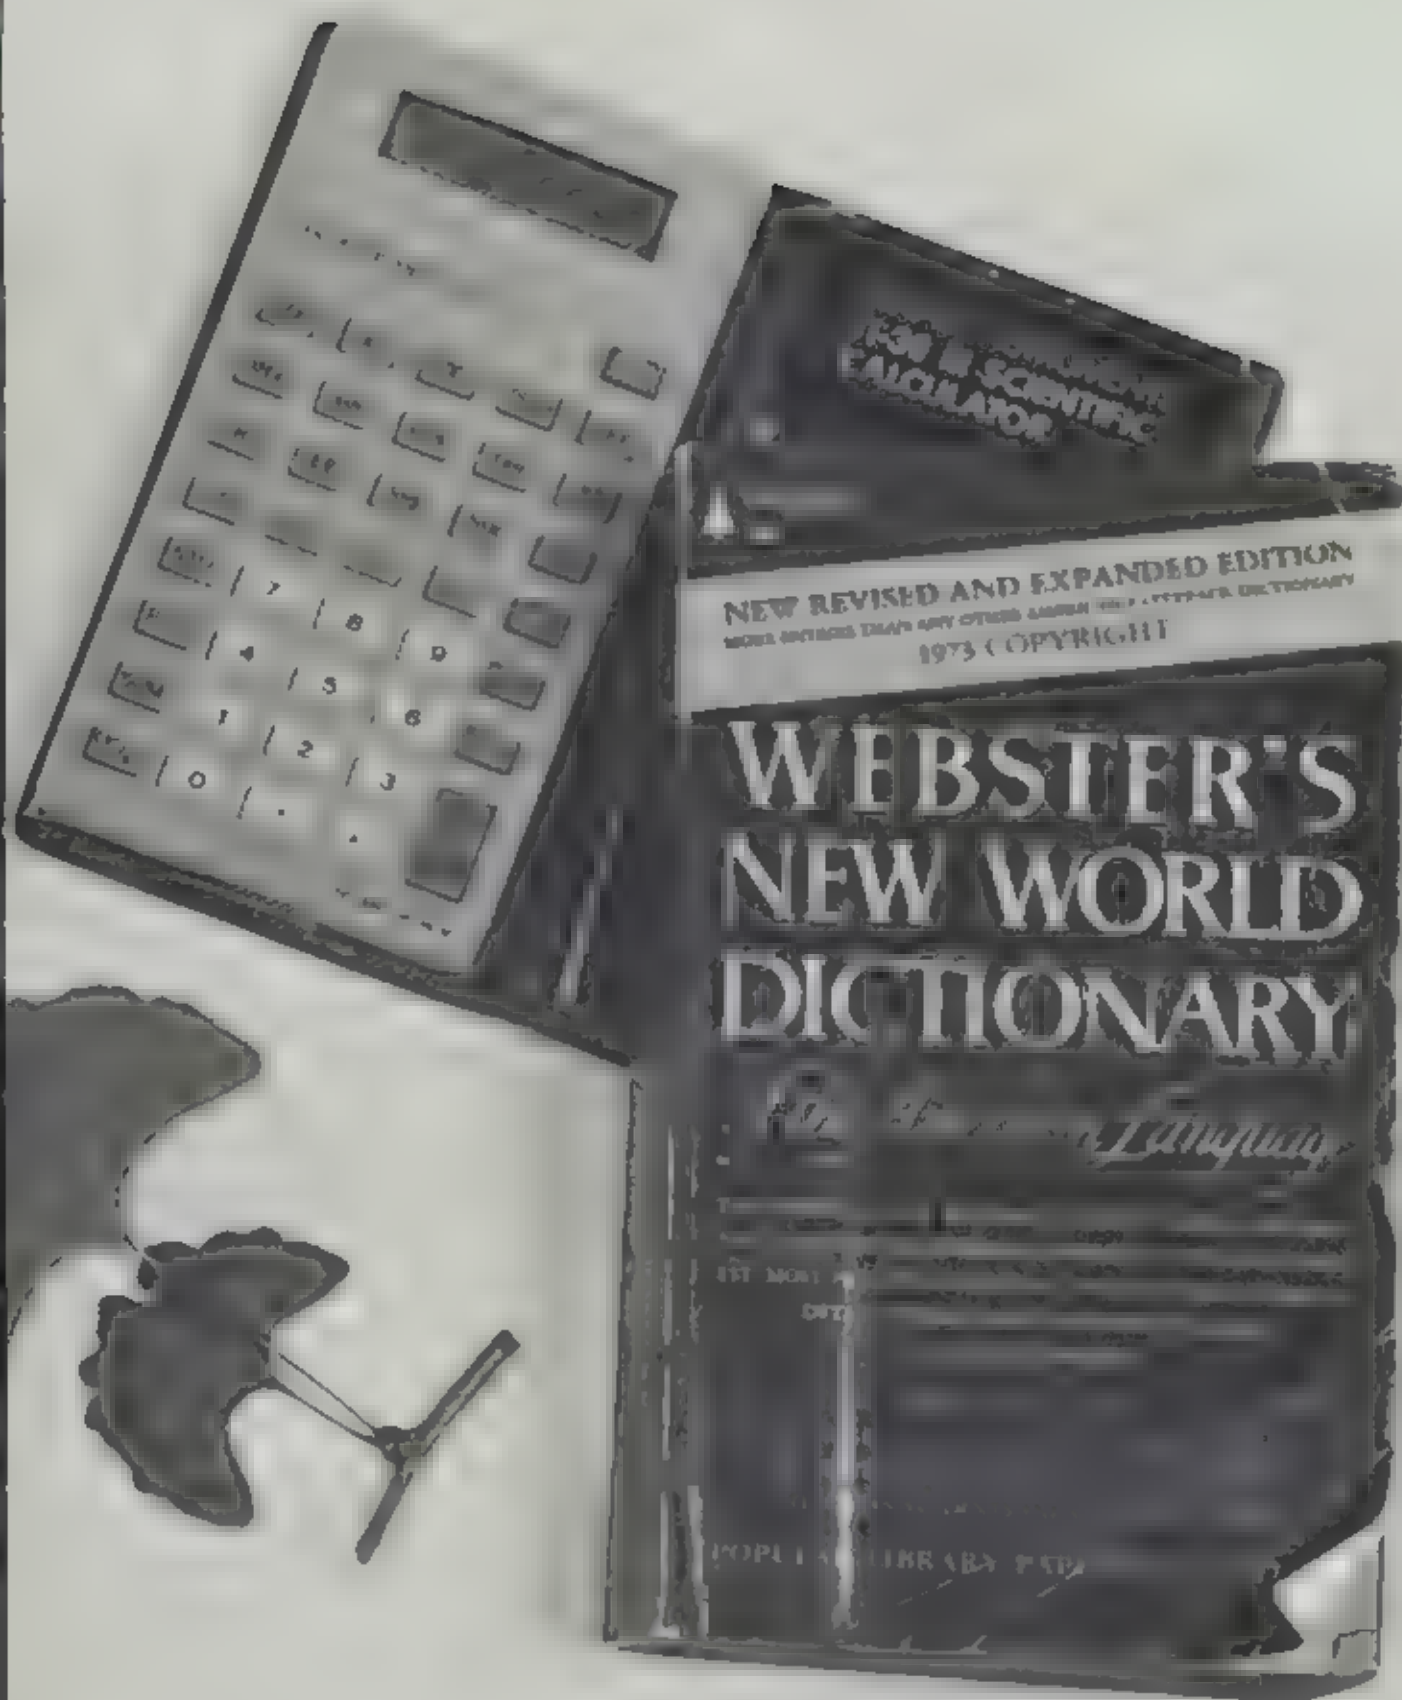

Penn Wood has gained many new educators this year, and they are enough to increase Penn Wood's Pride!

Mrs. Arimoto came from Chichester Jr. High to teach Geometry and Computers at the High School level.

Social Studies is important. The main purpose of it is to give students a better understanding of the world through various subjects. Some of these subjects include Psychology, Economics, and American History

The department is composed of ten dedicated men and women. They include Mr. Cifuni, Mr. Collins, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Graham, Mr. Jesson, Mr. Leary, Mr. Oakley, Ms. Schall, and area chairperson Miss Stretch.

Without Social Studies people couldn't understand one another. It's this misunderstanding that often leads to conflicts. One day, we'll learn to appreciate one another's differences. Perhaps Mr. Graham put it best saying, "Above all, the study of the social science should teach us how to think critically and objectively. It's most important in a free and democratic society that our young people understand the investment that they must make in order to keep their society free and democratic."

Miss Stretch's history classes were temporarily taught by Mr. Giampapa, a student teacher completing his undergraduate studies.

IT UP

The difficulty of Calculus class can sometimes be overcome when you share it with a friend, as shown here by Amy Pearsall and Bern Craskey

Math is essential for everything from balancing your budget to formulating math theories. A diversity of the math programs allows students to choose their level of knowledge. One may learn how to balance their checkbook in money management, or take a challenge with Calculus. The math course also includes computer to speed up tasks. Even general math courses benefited from the use of computers this year to make math fun and understandable.

Penn Wood welcomed Mrs. Arimoto to the math department this year. She has worked hard to better the math program for the students. Mastery of mathematics can lead the students to careers in engineering, science, computers, and a wide variety of math oriented fields. The time the math faculty contributes in planning and teaching will help the students to succeed in their chosen careers.

Science has changed the world; the human race has come from savagery to control of the atom. Today, scientists can clone genes, go into space, and other miraculous accomplishments. The purpose of the school science program is to introduce students to Physics Chemistry, Biology and the Earth Sciences in different levels ranging from the general course to the AP course.

There are great changes in the science department that will affect the students for years to come. Science materials are being updated and new methods are going to be used to prepare students for the world. Mrs. Theresa Diamond, the new general biology teacher, is an addition to the science staff

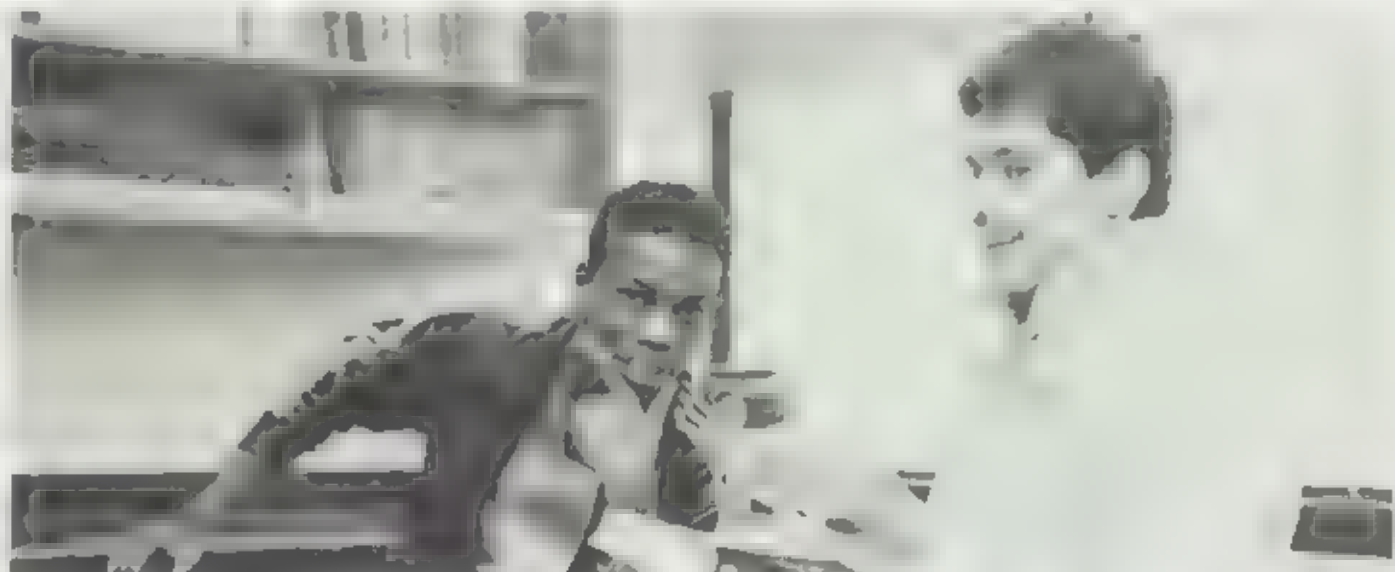

Students taking a science course this year will be more aware, and critical of the world around them. These students will be the next generations to use this knowledge that their forbearers once discovered. There won't be a future unless students learn the art of science. A DAY'S WORK

Preparing for their future, Monica, Kerin, Stacy, and Marie decided to look into business careers based on the trends that they've been seeing in the world

The business department's aim is to educate students of the advances in the enlarging business world. Mrs. Wilzek said, "our programs are for all students, not just business students." A little knowledge doesn't hurt any one, considering that the business department prepares students for the work market. This year the business department was geared to incorporate the IBM personal computer into the curriculum. At the end of last year, the business department produced a few exceptional students. Ingrid Mullen was acknowledged as "Outstanding Junior" in the secretarial program offered by The Katherine Gibbs School. Recognition also went to Diane Barr and Theresa Delaney who both received scholarships to the Free Enterprise Workshop.

These awards proved that this department has trained its students well in their specific fields. We hope Penn Wood will have the same success when its graduates enter the working class.

THE ENGLISH EXPERIENCE

Kim Stickles works eagerly on her essay "What I did on my summer vacation."

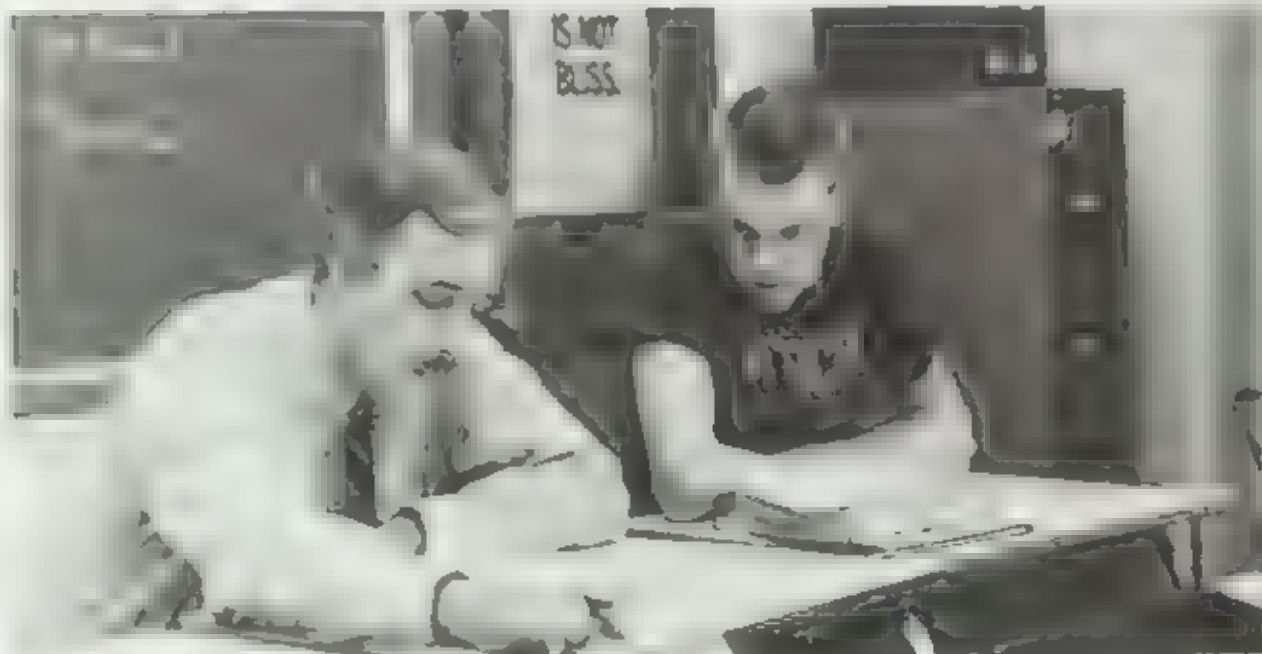

"But soft! What light through yonder window breaks?" Is it Juliet or is it an English teacher getting ready for a class?

When one thinks of English one automatically thinks of term papers, "To be or not to be" dictionaries, abstract thinking, dreaded grades on essays, and long lectures on a single poem.

Even though the minor details of English come quickly to mind, the importance of them fades into memory.

English teachers are unique people who sometimes seem "out of the ordinary." Their purpose is to make the students think and understand.

Teaching can be compared with Greek schooling; our teachers are the Socrates' and we are the Aristotles. Any individual can become as knowledgeable as they only through learning and English keeps one au courant with the world.

Dr. DiConstanzo sits in awe after reading Mike Stegman's MacBeth paper.

Beth Hackenberg, Jessica Ballinghoff and Zack Lee cram for a test.

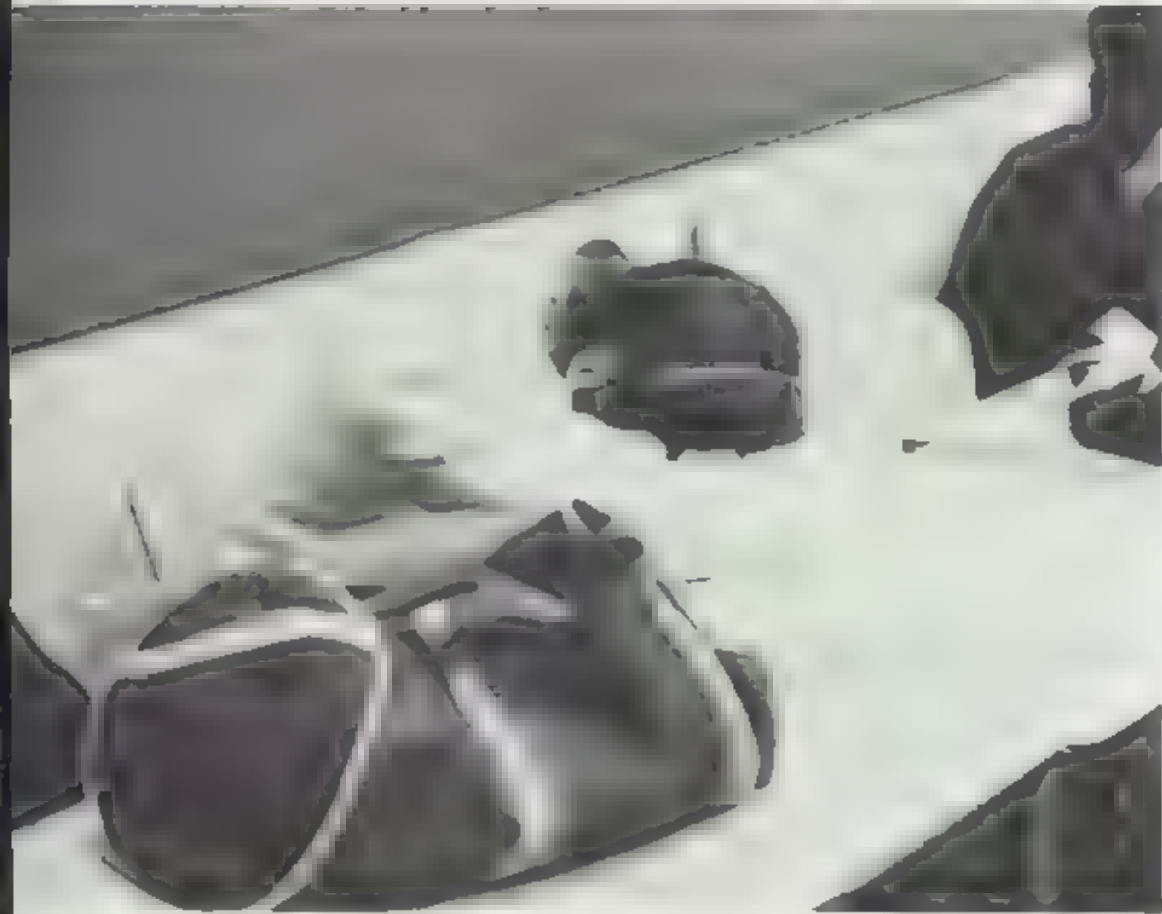

Nicole Giannini is relieved when she finds a choice for her RIF book.

Fran Morris and Sue Jannsen talk excitedly about their views on Antigone.

Beyond English

Getting into the mood for Spanish, Jim Carpenter mellows out while he listens to "MENUDO" on his walkman before class starts

Sue Henry closes her eyes and drifts to far off lands

Will the real French student please stand up!

The Language Department consists of six different levels of French and Spanish. The courses are taught by Mrs. Devenney, Mrs. Connors, Mr. Widener and for half a year, Mrs. Jaffe who was later replaced by Mrs. Smith.

In class, students are taught grammar, vocabulary, culture and history of the respective countries. Teachers expect students to speak their second language in improvised situations and to read foreign literature.

Taking a language course opens many opportunities for you. When asked,

What do you like best about taking a language?" One student said, "... being able to understand people like an exchange student whose first language is my second." Another student said, Because it helps me on the S.A.T. to figure out unknown words." Language classes are fun and a significant break from the routine

No words can express Mr. Weidner's love for his students

KEEPING PHYSICALLY AND MENTALLY FIT

Students are required to take Phys. Ed. as well as Health class in their junior year. It's important to be physically fit as well as mentally. Knowing the steps to saving a person's life, accessing one's own values, and learning about family life are different courses studied in Health, and are invaluable to students after they leave High school. According to Mr. Guille, head of the Physical Education Department here at Penn Wood High School, such programs like Health and Phys. Ed. provide "psychological benefits which contribute to a sense of well-being and help to support academic achievement in students." He believes that regular physical activity stimulates the development of the cardiovascular system, muscular strength, and endurance.

Along with Mr. Guille, the Penn Wood Physical Education staff is inhabited by dedicated and energetic teachers. These willing and able person are: Mr. Namoli, Ms. Carson, Ms. Nagle, Miss Pierson, and new comer, Mr. Robinson. Encouragement, a sense of self respect and motivation are qualities they expound to each of their students. These teachers are the force behind making the Health and Phys. Ed. courses, more enjoyable and bearable.

EXCHANGING CULTURES

Mauri Korhonen and Bob Burns take time out during class to discuss world affairs and the vast differences between Finland's schools and America's.

Norma Avelais demonstrates her impressive split on the balance beam that she learned to do when she took gymnastics classes in Mexico.

During the Activities Fair, representatives of the American Field Services recruit sophomore students to travel abroad.

Kazu Okimura feels right at home as he gets involved in the school choir's production of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical, Mikado, with Jacqui Hill and Anthony Mosakowski.

This year there were three foreign exchange students; one from Finland, one from Mexico, and one from Japan.

Norma Avelais, from Mexico, is 18 yrs. old and the youngest of seven. She already graduated from high school in Mexico, and plans to attend Itesm Unidad de Chihuahua in Mexico. She studied english for 8 yrs. before coming to America. She was a fall cheerleader for PW and a gymnast.

Mauri Korhonen, from Finland, is 16 yrs. old and the youngest of two. He studied english for 6 years, but says that it's easier to learn it here. The high schools in Finland are very different from American ones; they're similar to our colleges. There are longer breaks between classes and the students are permitted to go outside after lunch. In Finland, men must join the army for 11 mths at the age of 19, or at 20 if they are given an educational allowance. Mauri plans to enter at the age of 20.

Kazuyuki Okimura, from Japan, is 18 yrs. old. He came to Penn Wood in January after living in Arkansas for 4 mths. He hopes to be an English teacher in Japan some day. Kazu receives no credit for this senior year here as an exchange student since American schools are not as challenging as Japanese ones, but he enjoyed a lot of his stay in America, and found the culture very interesting. He especially enjoyed being part of the school's musical.

Norma and Mauri also enjoyed their stays in America, but they missed their families and friends. No matter how much they liked America, there's still no place like home.

Norma Avelais expresses her new found spirit for Penn Wood High School by cheering the students on during the Spirit Week Pep Rally for Homecoming.

CREATING CONCOCTIONS . . .

The main objective in Home Economics is to prepare students for the challenges of everyday life. In order to do this, a course in Advanced Foods has been added, and is taught by Eileen Stephy and Marianne Mazepink. This curriculum change was made in order to expand upon other food classes and increase student interest. Other changes are expected in the future.

Changes have also been made in the personnel of the department. Mrs. Mary Lawrence has retired and Mrs. Eleanor Haas from Penn Wood East has replaced her. Newcomer Ms. Cathy Yeager, formally the department head at Chichester H.S., has returned to teaching on a permanent basis at Penn Wood H.S.

With four enthusiastic teachers, who are working their hardest to make this year the best, the Home Economics department looks like a good one!

Admiring his partner's work, Curt Russell commends Lisa Janssen on her unique design.

Paging through her plan book, Mrs. Yeager announces that the class will make lasagna today.

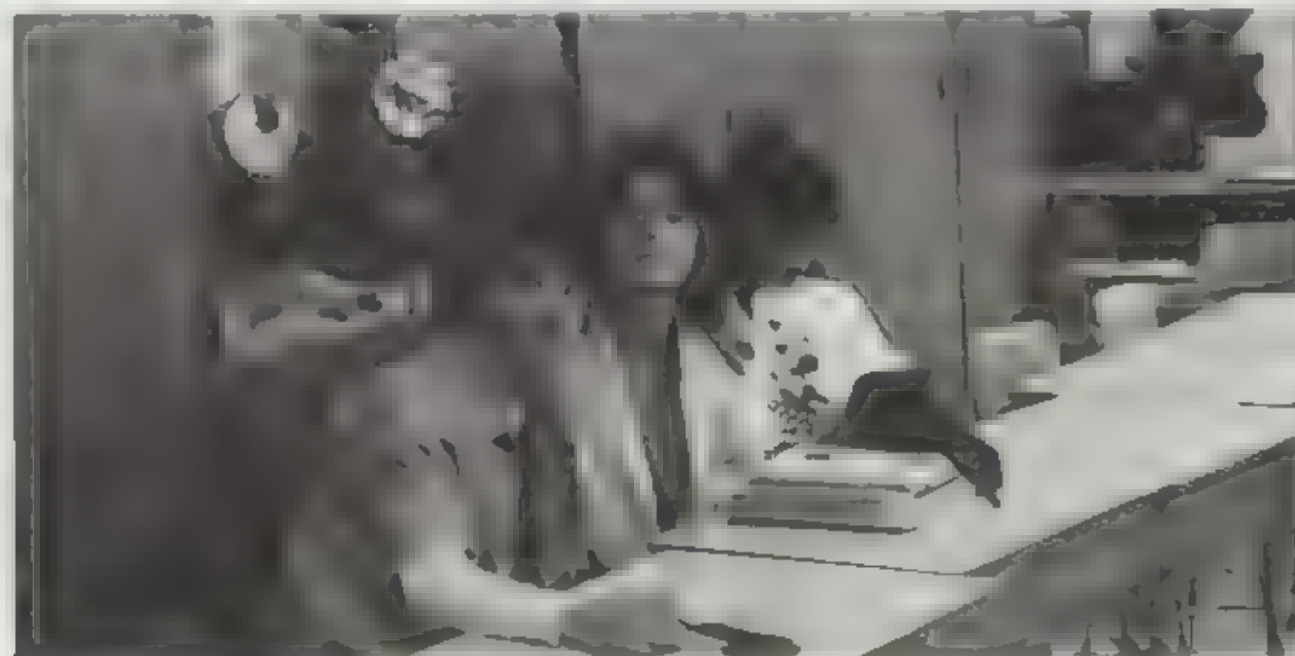

Wondering how to make the perfect candy cane, Nicole Lee and Adrianne McCalla compare recipes.

Senior Beth Stanton tries to figure out just how many candy canes it will take to make the most ultimate treat.

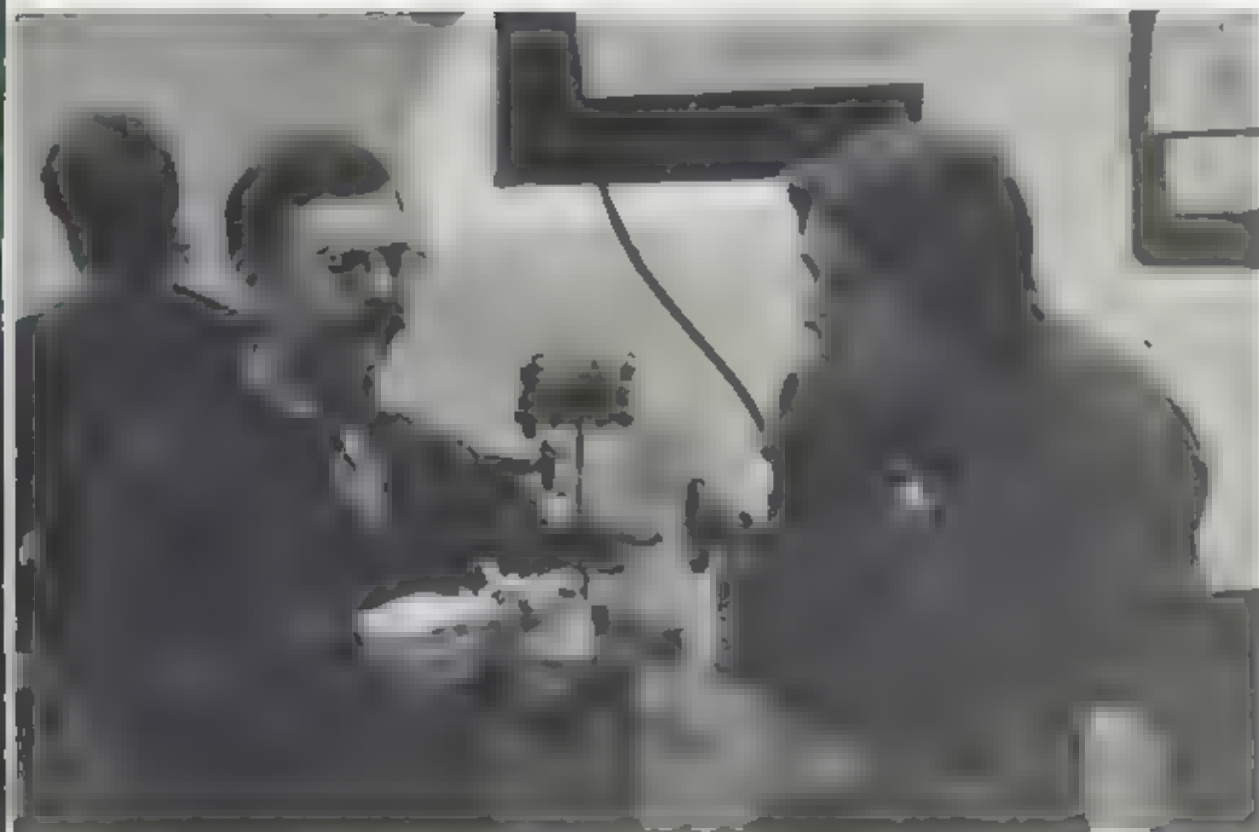

Shawn Landers prepares the sewing machine for the final stitches of her fashionable fabric creation.

It's always a team effort when we create our masterpieces! shout the trio of artists, Mark Romano, Michele Irvin, and Donna Bourer.

TALENTED HANDS

Mike Brodnick ponders over Mr. Ritsert's critical comments about his model Carefully adjusting the piece of machinery is cautious Greg Pine.

The Industrial Arts department is filled with diligent workers, those like Dwayne Swann and Kevin Ennings

People tend to take many things for granted; the chair on which they sit, the blender they use, and the table upon which they eat. Not many people acknowledge these little wonders that are used every day.

In workshop, you may learn about those wonders. Students learn how a table is made in woodworking, how to create a tool in metal shop, or discover the principle of hydraulics in power technology. Having the skill and precision taught during school gives these students the opportunity to start a good job after graduation. One may find a career in carpentry, graphic art, or drafting.

"Hands on" experience helps to inform the students of industrial techniques. The Industrial Arts department is well equipped to provide the machinery and instruction to do just so. Instructing teachers include Mr. Pierson, Mr. Ritsert, Mr. Maness, and Mr. Mescanti, all of which are very able and willing to aid students in their understanding of Industrial Arts.

So whatever course you're interested in, Industrial Arts, will help you appreciate the often overlooked things in the world a little more

MUSICAL MADNESS

The music department consists of choir, orchestra, and band. The main objective of this department is "To provide a quality educational experience for the students interested in music." An added aim this year is to roster students who are "available in study hall, so to enlarge the various musical activities.

The orchestra and choir are under the direction of Ruth Miller Cox. Special recognition can be reached in choir through District and Regional choirs. This year the district auditions took place on November 22 and December 13.

The band is under the direction of Mr. LaMar, a graduate of Temple University who is temporarily filling in for Miss Fritz, who is on a leave of absence. The band has marching and concert band seasons. This year the Band Front, consisting of flags and swing flags is assisted by Miss McCourey. Music provides an opportunity for students to develop their talents.

Jason Miksit drums out the beat to a piece during one of the long rehearsals

Placing in regional chorus, Anthony Mosakowski reviews his Mikado lines.

Cass Ross, a fine cellist, practices her favorite Spring Concert piece.

Lorraine Rivelle sways to the swing of the saxophone's melody.

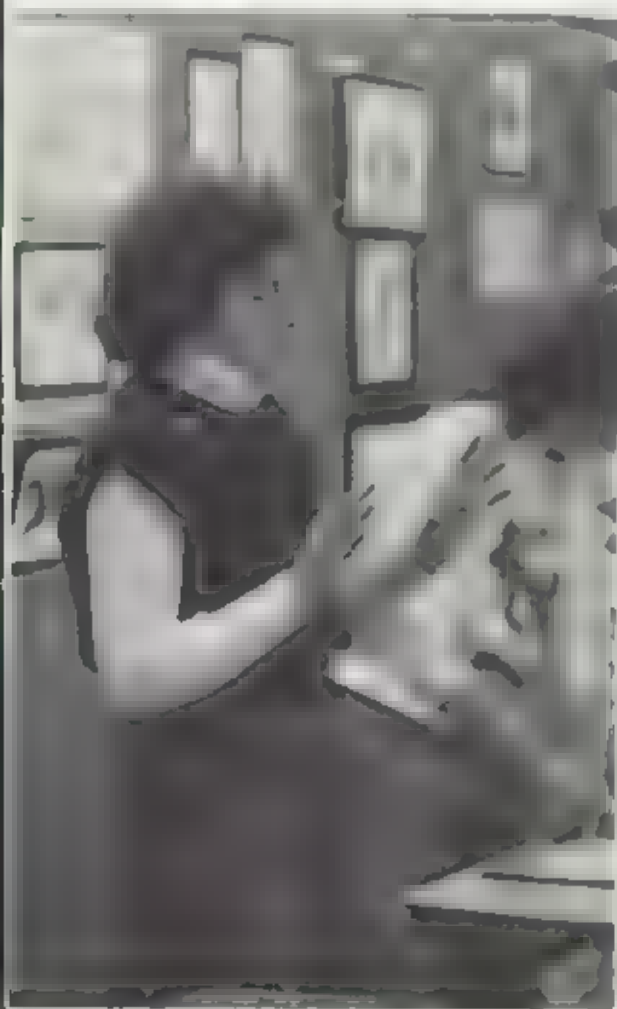

Mr. LaMar, the band instructor, carefully watches the music while he listens to band members do their solos for the midterms

CREATIVITY CAPTURED

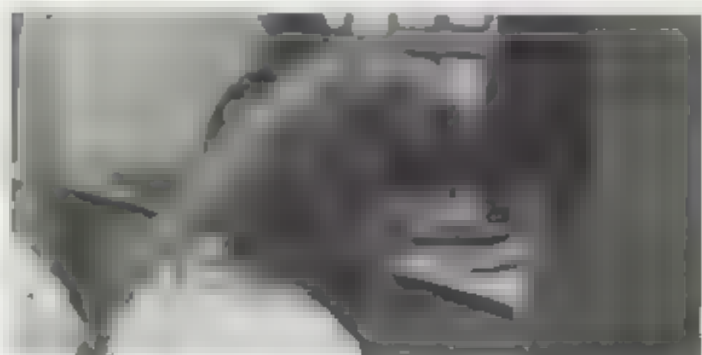

Explaining to her class the theory behind VanGough's bizarre complexity Ms. Scollere speaks with intensity.

Senior Tom Gorman gives us a beautifully construed rendition of himself.

"...and they call that Art?", says Chrissie Seelaus with a frown on her face.

An expert artist is visible in student Maryse Baldini

Preparing for another masterpiece, Malik Stewart assembles his canvas and frame.

While producing a new clay piece Tony Diluzio cordially accepts Mr. Neye's constructive criticism

While daydreaming Ellie Van Sant sees herself as an established artist displaying her works in New York gallery.

An aspiring young artist Rachel Stephenson hopes this still life will capture the eye of an art critic.

Students like Metissa Barbagallo are inspired by acclaimed artists such as Ms. Starr.

Everyday, between fourth and fifth period, the Vo-Tech students catch the bus either to Folcroft or Marple Vo-Tech. These students are involved in a program that teaches area students a specific trade, and prepares them for entering the "job market". Courses offered include masonry, cosmetology, business administration, and data processing. This program is open to any high school student but preference is given to those students who are returning over those who would be attending for the first time. Although the program has many advantages, it also has some disadvantages. For example, the buses return to P.W.H.S. around 3.00 p.m., which just about eliminates the Vo-Tech student from participating in any extra-curricular activities. To many Vo-Tech students, these disadvantages are very small when compared to the advantages, and many also feel that this is a "worthwhile preparation for entering the working world".

When asked, most Vo-Tech students agreed that it is an exciting and challenging place for students to learn and build vocational skills.

While he works on the engine of a '72 Chevy, Mike Arbolino studies the spark plugs.

Surveying the ground, Sean Aaron prepares for a future in landscaping.

SHAPING THE FUTURE

The Guidance office is probably the one place in school that students can go to make known their grievances and to have something done about them. Counselors, Mrs. Kent Salem, Mr. Iannacone and Mr. Thoma are very important to the planning of many students' futures. They help students decide what they want to do after they graduate.

As well as helping students work out personal problems, they also help students plan their curriculums, correct any problems with their schedules, and aid students in selecting and applying to colleges.

With the three appreciated counselors is Mr. Dorrin, the A.T. coordinator and liaison for the special education program in the district.

There are also the guidance secretaries, Mrs. Lobb and Mrs. Beale. They set up the appointments for students to meet with their counselors and keep everything organized and under control.

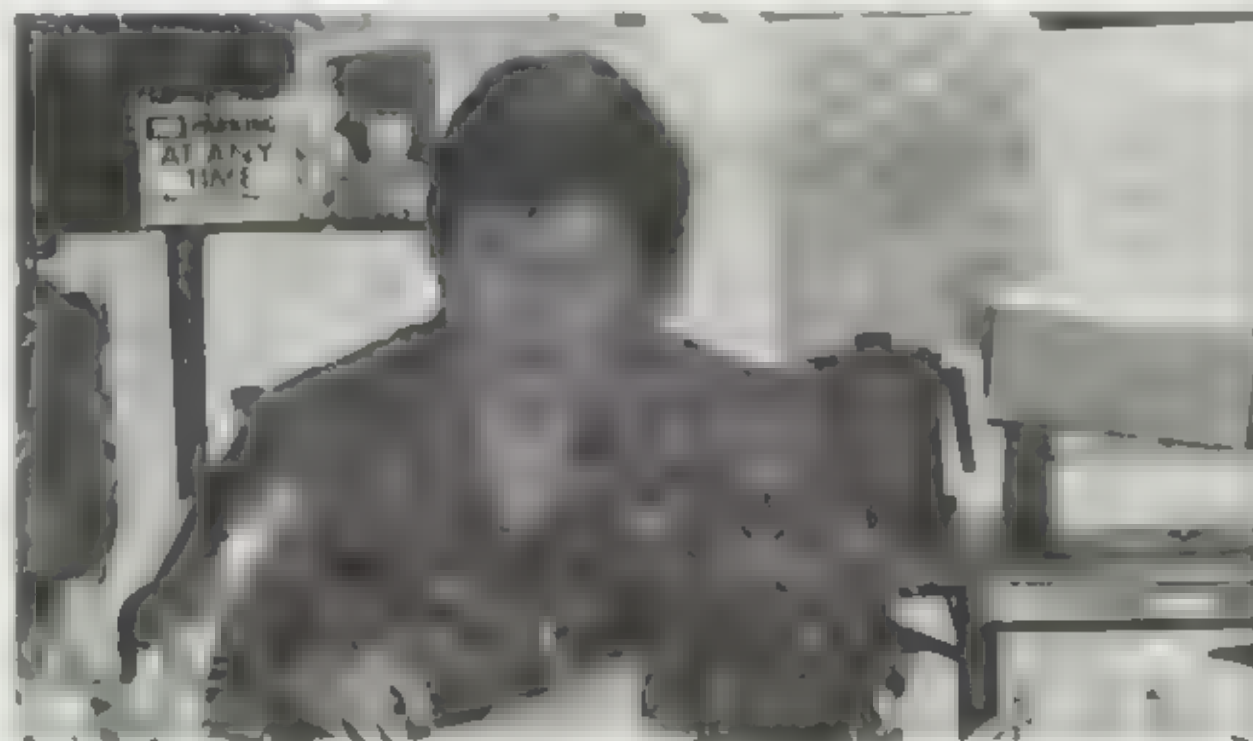

They're truly our "guiding light."

Mrs. Lobb smiles at the sound of the 2:10 bell. Now she can begin her work.

Beth Stanton searches for any sign of life during her delivery of candygrams.

Mrs. Beale frantically searches for the Christmas card from her daughter which she lost under the avalanche of papers that piled up just before Christmas break.

"You got what on your SAT's" Mrs. Leslie Kent Salem happily exclaimed.

Mrs. Cinnelli leaves the Attendance office and takes a break by joining the party over at the Guidance Office to celebrate the end of another year of students.

OUTSTANDING ORGANIZATION

School Board (b) Dewitt Stewart Anne Mowsakowski Robert Schmucker Mimi Greenwood Margaret Maish, (t) John Dirnbauer David Kaskella Joseph Mittleman John Covert and Joseph Bruno

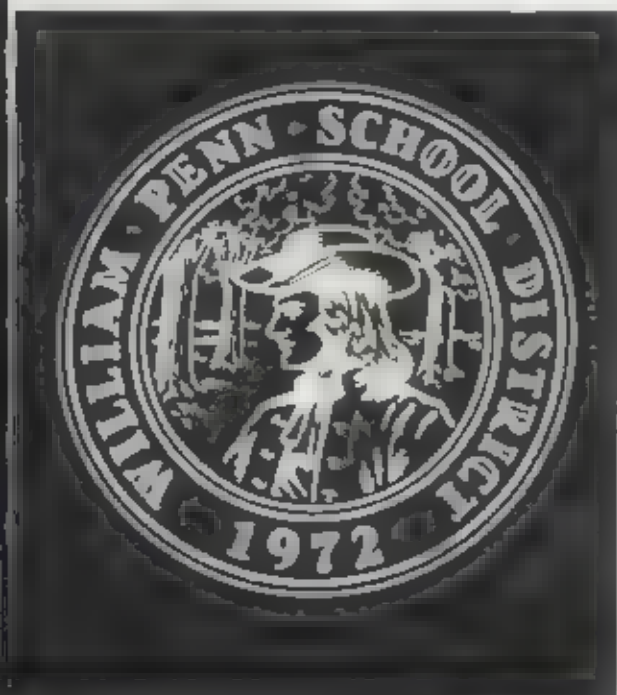

District Adm - (top) John Dirnbauer, Forrest Mutter, Thomas Kerr, (bottom) Eleanor Sylver, and David Gobel.

Not many people know much about the school board. Although it is rarely seen in school, its duties should not be overlooked. The School Board oversees the work of the superintendent, who takes care of the individual schools. The board divides into committees to run the various programs of the district, including Curriculum, Payroll, and Personnel. Because of the Sunshine Law, all the meetings are open to the public. Penn Wood sends a representative, a student council member, to the meetings and luncheons in order to keep the School Board in touch with the needs and desires of the student body.

Through the constant interaction, it is the goal of the School Board to keep the community informed with the district and to provide quality education for every student within the district.

Keeping the school in order, enforcing discipline, programming the schedules, and taking attendance are just a few of the tasks that are performed by the Administration. Even though the work piles up to a point where there seems to be no end, these people never give up. Why? Mr. Wingerter, the principal, said "[I enjoy] being a building principle [and] working with people . . . especially with young people." He and Mr. Bell, one of the vice-principles, worked toward their doctorate degrees with they hoped to have by spring. These two, and the other vice-principle, Mr. Philips, worked well together throughout the year, sharing responsibility as it came. They congratulate the seniors who graduated in the spring, and hope that they will look on their high school years with good memories.

MICHAEL J. JACKSON

"Mikey" I led the army of bodiless souls out of the fourth circle to a land called life. There I met mortals like Aristotle, Buddha, Lennon, Chief Joseph, Ghandi, and Myself. There we sat around the campfire roasting marshmallows and smoking cigarettes while the sun set on us all. By morning there was peace throughout the world. No more rain only rain bows. John's guitar gently wept. My army then left to form a town called society. I went to the woods and became a non-conformist. In a world of rainbows I find that I miss the rain.

WALKING WOUNDED

One of the biggest disadvantages of playing sports is the possibility of injury. Injuries before or during the season can not only harm the player, but the team as well. Most injuries occur during playing time, but not all are sports related.

Many Penn Wood athletes experienced injuries during the 1986 fall season. Senior varsity hockey player Jill Bloom was injured in a car accident in August of '86. Though she was not able to play at all, she was still on the team. She damaged some nerves in her neck and had to go for therapy two times a week. Though the injury is recurring, she will be able to play Lacrosse in the Spring.

The biggest disappointment was that "I wasn't able to play in my senior year", Jill said. The worst part "was on game days when everyone was in the huddle and I couldn't be there."

A few of this year's football players were injured. Junior, Greg Norman, and senior lineman Tony Deluzio had torn ligaments in their knees. Greg's was only temporary, but he missed the last part of the season. He said that he "wasn't totally depressed because the team was winning."

Tony Deluzio's injury was a little more extensive. He was able to play, but he needed to wear a knee brace and receive continued therapy. The injury is still causing problems even into the wrestling season. Tony is just glad he can play.

Injuries can play a big part in determining how often an athlete can participate. Most athletes are able to overcome their injuries, but determination and a love for the sport is needed.

Senior captain Tony Deluzio experienced some torn ligaments in his knee this season.

Senior, Van Copeland, had a severe case of appendicitis this fall and missed the last few games of the season.

Since Jill Bloom could not play hockey, she contributed by doing the commentary for a home game.

Sophomore Andy Holloway missed the second half of the Cross Country season because of a temporary injury.

THE LIVES OF MARYLIN MONROE

INTRIGUING INTERNATIONAL

On January 20, 1987, while negotiating for the release of hostages, Terry Waite disappeared. He has been a symbol of hope for the hostages because of his work with terrorists. These terrorists have been stumping intelligence agencies in the Western World and little is known about Waite's whereabouts.

On the twenty-third of July, Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson were married in Westminster Abbey. Princess Diana, Sarah's best friend, encouraged Sarah to get to know Prince Andrew better, and they re-established their friendship stemming from their childhoods. After they were married Sarah Ferguson's official title became "The Duchess of York."

In October of last year, Eugene Hasenfus parachuted into Nicaragua after the plane he was in went down and he got captured by soldiers. He had been caught delivering weapons to contras for their war. He was put on trial and received a sentence of thirty years. He was released in December of 1986 right before Christmas.

In October of 1986 Mikhail Gorbachev, the Soviet Union's leader and the U.S. President Ronald Reagan met in Ireland for a summit. This Soviet-American summit had the potential to reach an extensive arm control agreement. Gorbachev did not want the United States to research or work in the area of Star Wars. Star Wars weapons are to shield us against missiles in space. Reagan, however, did not want to give up this privilege. The summit was extended and many items had been agreed upon, but the differences about Star Wars stopped the progress.

After being overthrown by Corazon Aquino, Ferdinand Marcos now resides in Hawaii, with his wife Imelda. For twenty years, he ran the government of the Philippines as president. The government was becoming autocratic or a government run by a single person. He passed laws and enforced them forcefully with his military. After a peaceful revolution, Marcos was exiled.

Corazon Aquino is the current President of the Philippines. In 1986, she came to power by overturning the Marcos' government. Aquino became President after a peaceful revolution. She returned democracy to the country, by reconstructing the government. Aquino used quiet force to change her country toward prosperity once again.

AND NATIONAL ITEMS

Ronald Reagan:

President Ronald Reagan had a busy year. It started with his condolence speech to the families of the space shuttle, The Challenger's, crew, who were faced with their untimely death. Reagan then, in July, celebrated the nation its birthday, and the unveiling of the statue of liberty. In September, the President, along with his wife Nancy, appeared on T.V. and appealed to the American public to help fight the war against drugs and its abuse. December came with a bang. The Iran scandal was out in the open, and the President tried desperately to hold his administration together, but without much success.

Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill:

Retired as the speaker of the House of Representatives, he will be always remembered for his strong stands on matters of principle. He frequently disagreed with his contemporaries in Congress and the President himself.

Nancy Reagan

Accompanied by her husband, the first lady, Nancy Reagan, entreated the American people to aid in the fight against drugs. She addressed the issue particularly to children; she pleaded for them just to say, "NO!"

Chief Justice William Hubbs Rehnquist, William Hubbs Rehnquist, after a vigorous investigation, was confirmed by the Senate as the new Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. He follows in the footsteps of his predecessor Warren Burger into the Court. He became another addition to a court which is largely conservative, making it only one vote short of a new majority.

Oliver North

Oliver North of The National Security Commission was the mastermind behind the Iranian Arms Deal. He also helped to send millions of dollars to rebels in Nicaragua without the knowledge of Congress.

Liberty Weekend/Statue of Liberty: The Statue of Liberty received a grand celebration on the hundredth year of its existence in the New York Harbor. Liberty Weekend was a four day extravaganza in the Lady's honor. Fireworks blazed around the statue as she watched her faithful paying their homage. Lady Liberty stands in New York's Harbor greeting the poor, tired and the huddled masses who yearn to breathe free.

Crack:

A new drug hit the already polluted market of drug users. Its name was Crack. Americans horrifyingly watched as drug users brought Crack in heavy quantities at lower prices than other drugs like cocaine, and marijuana. Crack is said to be more potent than the other drugs. A campaign against drugs by athletes, actors, and other famous faces brought home the realities about drug abuse to the American people.

Pornography:

In July 1986, the Justice Department, under Attorney General Edwin Meese put forth a report on pornography. The report demanded for stronger actions against all type of pornography.

AIDS

The Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome continued to effect both the homosexual and the heterosexual communities. The disease has affected the lives of every American. More people have become aware of methods to keep one safe from such diseases. The awareness level has also given birth to a wave of controversy. The question of whether or not the safe sex methods, i.e. the use of condoms, should be advertised on the television screen. This has raised the concerned eyebrows of many.

Martin Luther King Holiday:

Fifteen years after his death, Martin Luther King, Jr. was commemorated with a holiday in his honor. It is the third Monday in January. In history, it stands as the only holiday in the honor of a black man. King is remembered today for his civil rights demonstrations and marches, most memorably his march on Washington, D.C. It was here that he delivered his famous "I have a dream" speech. His contribution to the advancement of rights for all people has won him a place in history as a man of great vision.

AROUND THE NEIGHBORHOOD

1986-87 was a year of many happenings in the news from around the Delaware Valley.

The strike of the summer was by the garbage collectors of Philadelphia. The piled trash, and the smell, grew worse during the strike, threatening resident's health. The task of cleaning up was lengthy and difficult.

The first home for AIDS patients was opened in Philadelphia. AIDS has become a national concern as an apparent epidemic has gripped the U.S.

Temple University professors also went on strike in September. They sought higher salaries, among other benefits. Students staged a march and rally at City Hall to protest the strike and get the teachers back to the classrooms. The strike lasted 19 days.

John Wanamaker's Department Store was sold to Woodward and Lothrop Inc. in November. More than $175 million was paid for the 16 stores. Bamberger's Stores names were changed to the same as its parent company, Macy's. Gimbels Department Stores was bought by Stern's and Foster, and the stores either had their names changed or were closed.

On the last day of Christmas/New Year's vacation, January 4, a very heavily travelled day, 2 Amtrak trains collided in Maryland. Fifteen people were killed and dozens injured, including several from the Delaware Valley.

Also in January, was the unsuccessful separation of 3 and 1/2 week old siamese twin boys joined at the chest, at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. After hours of surgery, the weaker boy died, and his brother died the following afternoon.

In September, Casino workers in Atlantic City went on strike to demand higher wages, causing Atlantic City to nearly shut down. Violent protests and demonstrations by workers erupted after a 35-hour walkout. Dozens were injured and great amounts of damage were done to local business before it ended. The strike was settled the following day.

Jim McGowan, a Temple University graduate student and a paraplegic, failed in his attempt to swim across the English Channel this September. He was attempting to make this swim as a challenge to be the first paraplegic to swim the Channel. However after 2 hours and 19 minutes in the water he was pulled out with mild hypothermia.

January was a month of snow. Two storms, within 3 days of each other, blanketed the entire East Coast and left this area with 10-15 inches of snow, as well as treacherous ice. The snow was joined with high winds and sub-zero temperatures, closing the airport and making most all highways impassable. Travel anywhere was almost impossible.

November brought important elections throughout the state of Pennsylvania. In Pennsylvania's most important election, Bob Casey (right) defeated Bill Scranton to become Governor. In what became a "smear campaign" of personal as well as political slurs on opponents. In other elections, Arlen Specter defeated Bob Edgar for the U.S. Senate, and Curt Weldon (left) won over Bill Spingler for a seat in the House of Representatives.

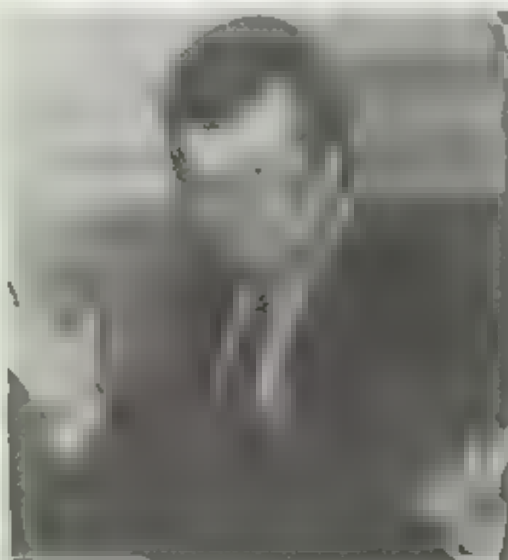

Budd Dwyer, Pennsylvania State Treasurer convicted of conspiracy fraud and racketeering, committed suicide in January. Just before beginning his scheduled news conference to announce his resignation Dwyer pulled out a gun and shot himself. His tragic death brought shock and mourning to the entire state.

Sylvia Seegrist was sentenced to three consecutive life terms in October. She had been convicted of the murder of 3 people and wounding of 7 others in a shooting rampage at the Springfield Mall in October, 1985. She had been in a mental hospital since her indictment last year.

In November, Phillip Worthington better known as "Baby Phillip", was kidnapped and finally returned after 6 days. The new born was taken from his mother's arms by someone posing as a nurse at a Bucks County Hospital. FBI agents located the boy in Baltimore and returned him unharmed to his parents.

A YEAR OF

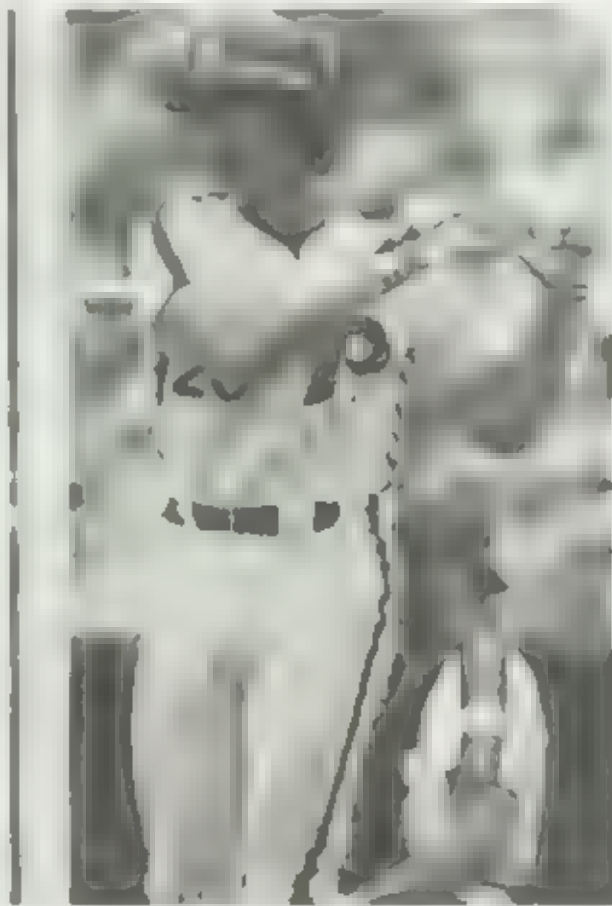

New York pitcher Ron Darling helped lead the Mets to their first World Series Championship since 1969. The Mets defeated the Red Sox four games to three.

Martina Navratilova added more victories to her prestigious career. She is now second place all-time in Grand Slam victories.

Armed with his famed split-finger fastball, Houston Astros pitcher Mike Scott led his team to the playoffs and won the NL Cy Young Award for his efforts.

For a season in which he led the league in home runs and RBIs, Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt was given the NL MVP Award.

This man is just one of thousands of Americans who got swept up by the physical fitness craze that this nation saw.

University of Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde proved that he was the best collegiate athlete in the nation by throwing only ten interceptions in the regular season. He won the Maxwell Award and the Heisman Trophy for his talent.

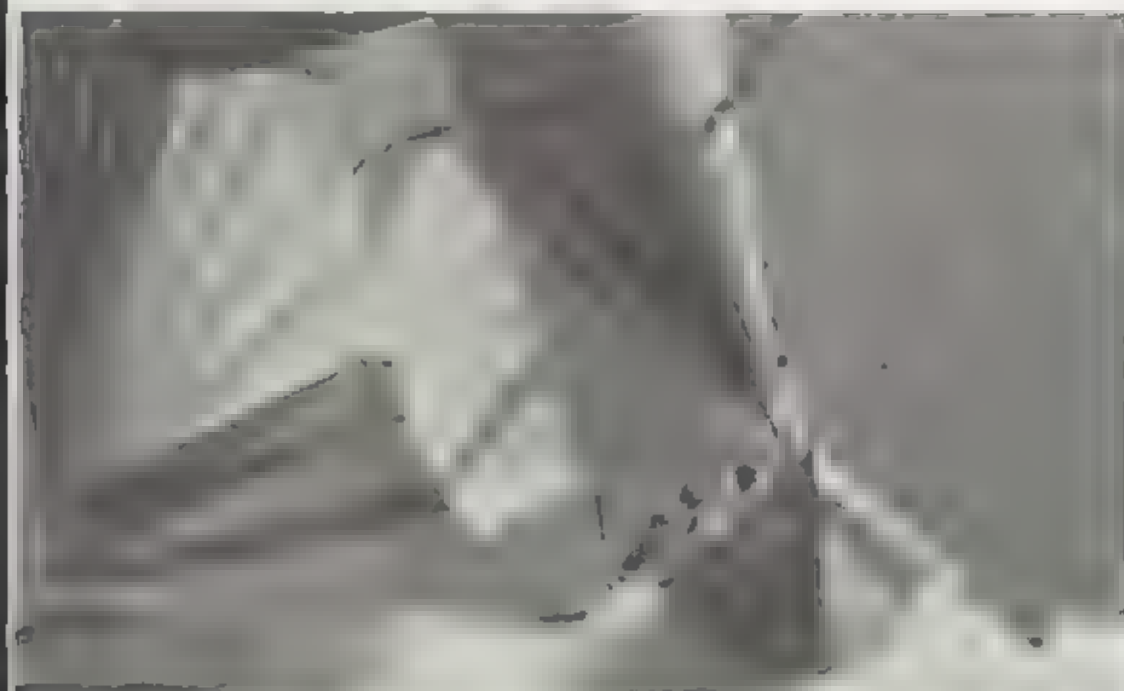

By defeating Trevor Berbick, Mike Tyson became the youngest heavyweight boxing champion ever.

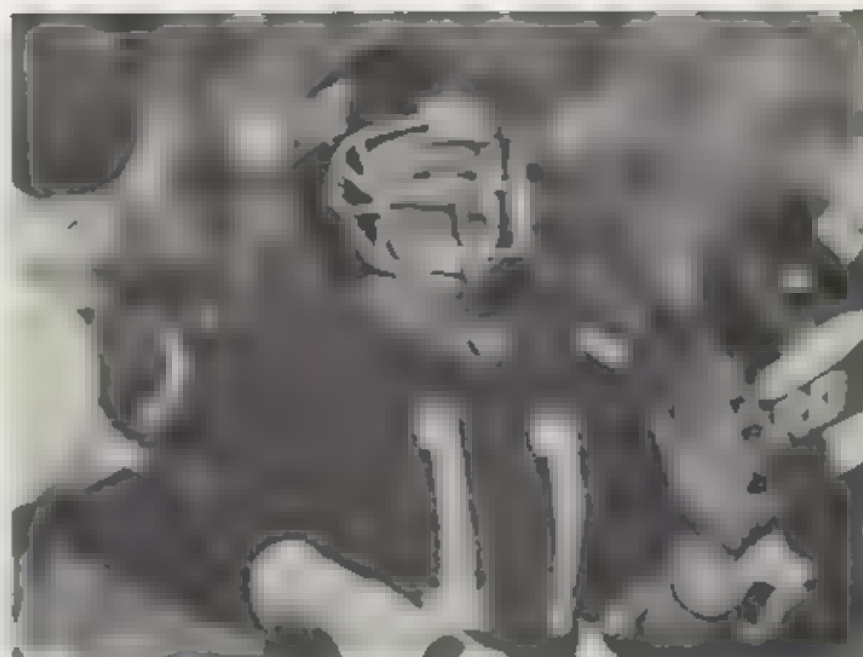

Chicago Bulls All-Star, Michael "Air" Jordan, dominated the NBA with his aggressive style of play, and led the league in scoring.

CHAMPIONS

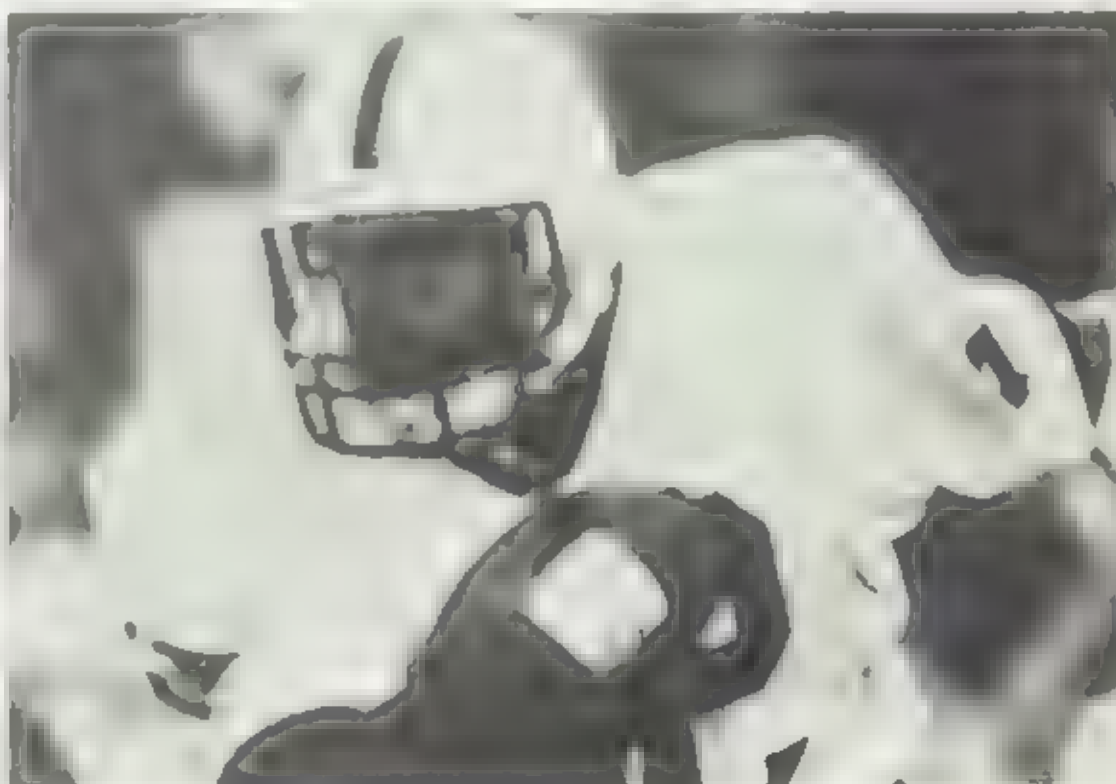

With his boat "Stars and Stripes", Dennis Conner of the San Diego Yacht Club defeated the Australians to regain the Americas Cup he lost in 1983. He crushed "Kookaborra III" four races to none.

Giants quarterback Phil Simms led New York to its first Super Bowl Championship ever, and was honored by being named MVP of the game. The Giants demolished the Denver Broncos by a score of 39-20 in Super Bowl XXI.

By winning the Tour de France, Greg Lemond of the United States became the first American to win the prestigious bicycle race.

Penn State University tailback D.J. Dozier helped lead the Nittany Lions to their second national championship in five years. Penn State defeated the Miami Hurricanes by a score of 14-10 in the Fiesta Bowl to clinch the title.

Leading the Red Sox to the American League pennant, Boston pitcher Roger Clemens posted a 24-4 record and led the AL in strikeouts. Because of his achievements, he was named MVP and Cy Young Award winner.

Buddy Ryan and his heralded "46 defense" were unable to remove the Eagles from their abyss, as they suffered another losing season.

Penn Wood High has a style of fashion all its own. This is due in part to the fact that PW takes a little style from a lot of different groups. Denim and white leather were often seen around school. White boots with fringe on them and long and short denim jackets made quite a hit throughout the year. Silver and gold accents, studs and rhinestones on shirts and shoes were popular accessories. The permed long hair style made a comeback. More often than none, a girl could be found wearing a "mane," on the other hand, the boys opted for a shorter and spikier look.

The girls also followed the boys' trend. The girl's skirts were short and ribbed, or almost ankle length. At any rate, all were very tight. Oversized sweaters, dressy shirts and Levi's helped the PW guys look nice throughout most of the year, on the more casual side, sweats and sneakers were also popular with the "men" of the school. Sweatshirts had such popular trademarks as Coca-Cola, Swatch, Reebok, and Forenza printed on them. Concert t-shirts were worn quite frequently again this year. If any of these styles seem appealing, they can be bought at any of the local malls.

We have had a hard time of it being friends, but it seems like we both came out of it ok. Good luck in Family, Church, Friend, and life.

Hey buddy, what's up? It was an interesting year, I'll never forget you fallin asleep randomly in English. I hope to see ya down soon with, just in word of caution, ~~watch~~ watch out for sex-related diseases, we wouldn't want to see the old Jumbo with ticks or anything L.I.T (602-6964) have an awesome life

Later,
 Mark "Fin" Z...

Jim,

Best Wishes for A

Happy + Successful Future.

I enjoyed our time in B'Ball together (as short as it was for both of us) Continue to stay intense + Success will be yours

Good Luck
